A jury which heard evidence Tuesday afternoon in the case of Wesley Carleton Ingram, Catonsville, Md., charged by the Commonwealth with involuntary manslaughter, in the death of 16-year-old Gloria Myers of Hanover last January 26, reported a verdict of not guilty at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The case was given to the jury at 10:35 o'clock. Costs were placed on Ingram.

An automobile operated by Ingram and a jeep driven by Miss Myers, collided on the Hanover-Littlestown highway on Sunday afternoon, January 26, near a culvert a short distance from the intersection of this road and the Sell's Station road. Ingram was alone in his automobile, a sedan. Riding with Miss Myers were her mother, Mrs. Pauline Myers, her sister, Mary, 14, and brother, Richard, 3. Miss Myers was thrown from the jeep and killed. The others suffered various injuries.

Mother Testifies

Mary Myers testified that she remembered nothing of the accident, and was unconscious until two days afterward, but Mrs. Myers, mother of the dead girl, said that both she and Gloria saw Ingram's car approaching at what she said "must have been 60 miles an hour," and that Gloria cried out:

"Look at that car coming, we're going to hit."

Gloria, it developed from the testimony of Mrs. Myers, had held an operator's license for one month and two days prior to the accident.

Other prosecution witnesses included State Policeman Frank Yercavage, who presented pictures of the scene of the accident and of the wrecked cars, and testified as to their position when he reached the scene.

Yercavage said he took a statement from Ingram in the Hanover hospital, in which he said Ingram told him he left Catonsville about 11 a. m., on the morning of the accident, and just before the accident "all at once saw a car in front of him, but didn't know where it came from."

Mrs. Myers testified that the jeep was on the right side of the highway. Another prosecution witness was W. S. Lippy, Littlestown, who said he was the first one to reach the scene after the crash. He described the position of the cars and the injured.

Defendant Testifies

The defense swore LeRoy H. Winebrenner, Gettysburg, who presented a diagram of the highway, and Ira L. Williams, Gettysburg photographer, who took picture of the scene.

COL. DURANT GETS 15 YEARS

Frankfurt, Germany, April 30 (AP)—Col. Jack Durant was sentenced today to 15 years at hard labor and dismissal from the U. S. Army for participation in the bizarre theft of $1,500,000 of Hesse royal jewels from Kronberg castle.

After deliberating for two days, the U. S. military court of eight colonels convicted the 37-year-old Chicago air force officer on eight counts. These included theft, smuggling, jewels into the United States without payment of customs, and signing another officer's name without authority in an attempt to hasten a discharge from the army.

The slim, dark featured Durant, who stood erect and motionless, blanched when sentence was pronounced in a courtroom filled mostly with American women and teen age girls.

The crowd had craned to see the glittering array of precious stones spread out before the court martial as evidence.

Specifically, the court found Durant guilty of stealing only $10,000 worth of the jewel collection, which the army prosecution valued at $1,500,000.

DRIVER JAILED

Glenn Slaybaugh, 28, of Gardners R. 2, who entered a plea of guilty to a drunken driving charge in Cumberland county court Tuesday, was fined $25 and sent to jail for 30 days. He was arrested in Mt. Holly Springs last Wednesday by State Police of the Carlisle substation.

See Pattern For Phone Strike Settlement In US

Washington, April 30 (AP)—Settlement of telephone strikes in Pennsylvania and New York brought varying opinions today on the effect the agreements may have toward ending the nation-wide tie-up.

An agreement settling the 24-day strike of 37,000 employees of the New York Bell Telephone company was announced shortly before 6 a. m., today by J. R. Mandelbaum of the U. S. Conciliation Service.

The four striking unions settled for a $4-a-week wage increase and other union-sought improvements, the unions announced.

Other gains listed by the unions in a statement handed pickets by their leaders were maintenance of membership and an extra day of vacation granted when a holiday falls during a regular vacation period.

A few hours earlier in Philadelphia U. S. Conciliator John Murray announced settlement of a strike of 6,000 Pennsylvania telephone maintenance workers, which calls for weekly wage increases of $3 and $4. The workers are to return to their jobs at once.

Henry Mayer, counsel for 15 striking unions, termed the agreements "below the nationwide pattern" of increases in other industries and said "the fight for a decent living standard for telephone workers will still go on." Mayer said he understood the New York settlement provided a $4 weekly boost.

A government official participating in the Pennsylvania negotiations who asked not to be named, said the contract terms "likely will set the pattern" for a national settlement. He added that union-management talks underway in Washington might wind up with an agreement in "less than 48 hours."

Joseph Beirne, president of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, representing 39 affiliates in the nationwide work stoppage, told a reporter he had no comment, either on the Pennsylvania-New York agreements or on Mayer's statement.

POSTMASTER AT FAIRFIELD ENDS SERVICES TODAY

George M. Neely today retires as postmaster at Fairfield, after having served 12 years and two months. Mr. Neely's term started March 1, 1935.

During the twelve years of Mr. Neely's service, the U. S. Postal Department was called upon to assume many new assignments including the disbursement of First World War Bonds, the initial Social Security enrollment, and the many drives for sale of War Bonds. During World War 2 the volume of outgoing and incoming mail was heavily increased over normal but with all these extra assignments, Mr. Neely and the entire postal personnel assumed them "as a patriotic duty and privilege."

Despite a natural recession from war time business, Mr. Neely reports that the volume of cash sales now is more than double that shown when he took over March 1, 1935.

Served Three Times Before

In addition to the postmastership just terminated by Mr. Neely, he has served at three other periods.

The first was during the Benjamin Harrison administration when the general store of the late J. U. Neely and John M. Musselman was the location of the Fairfield post office. Mr. Musselman man was the postmaster and J. U. Neely his assistant. It was during this time 1889-1891, that the Western Maryland railroad between Orrtanna and Highfield was being constructed. The laborers employed on project were mostly natives of Italy and Austria. This large new influx of laborers greatly increased business for the merchants and post office. The business in the post office department was especially brisk on pay days when the workmen brought most of their pay, all in currency, to be sent to their families in Europe by registered mail. It was then that the grocery delivery boy, George Neely, although barely a "teen-ager" was pressed in to help with those pay day registered letters and Mr. Neely says he has no (Please Turn to Page 7)

News Briefs

New York, April 30 (AP)—India reopened the Palestine debate here today with a plea to give the Jews a voice in the proceedings of the special assembly of the United Nations.

Noting that the assembly's 14-nation steering committee had heard the spokesmen of five Arab states present their views yesterday, Indian delegate Asaf Ali asked: "Where are the representatives of the Jewish people who will be affected? Where is Palestine?"

Washington, April 30 (AP)—The House formally voted today to slash the administration's $350,000,000 foreign relief fund to $200,000,000 and placed tight restrictions on distribution of American relief in countries under Russian domination.

The restriction would deny relief assistance to "those countries whose governments are dominated by the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics" unless they agree to American control of the supplies.

Washington, April 30 (AP)—The House formally sealed its approval of a 43 per cent slash in the administration's foreign policy program. (Please Turn to Page Two)

Pastor Leaves

The Rev. Robert H. Sheehan, pastor of Centenary Methodist church, Littlestown, for the last two years, will move Thursday to Conyngham, Pa., to which place he was transferred at the annual sessions of the Central Pennsylvania conference at Harrisburg last week. The Rev. Grantas A. Hoopert, Hustontown, Pa., is expected to arrive Thursday evening to succeed the Rev. Mr. Sheehan.

Littlestown EX-CHAPLAIN IS ROTARY SPEAKER

Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, former Army chaplain, and pastor of Redeemer's Reformed church, spoke to the Rotary club of Littlestown Tuesday evening on the topic "Why I Am Proud of Being an American."

He also brought out some interesting facts about American church history. When the Declaration of Independence was signed, only five per cent of the people were affiliated with a Christian church, he stated; now 50 per cent are affiliated. He described the work of the church among the Indians, negroes and immigrants accustomed to state-controlled churches in Europe.

"The speaker stated that there are more different denominations in America than in any other country, but that they get along better than in any other country."

Edward T. Richardson was selected as delegate to the annual 181st District conference to be held at Hershey Sunday to Tuesday. In addition to Mr. Richardson and Mrs. Richardson, the following are planning to attend: Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Dunbar, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley B. Stover, and Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Riden. On Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ritter and Mr. and Mrs. Luther W. Ritter expect to be principal speaker on Tuesday morning.

Tuesday's meeting was in charge of the Classification and Membership committee, composed of L. D. Snyder, Richard A. Little, Mervin Harner, and William V. Sneringer. Members welcomed back Dr. Howard A. Stonieser, who, with his wife, spent a month in California visiting their daughter.

The Lions club will hold its semi-monthly meeting on Thursday evening. The Convention Committee will have charge. One member of this committee, John R. Bloom, is in the hospital at Fort Howard. The other member is Sterling Wisotzkey.

LADDER TRUCK PURCHASE WILL BE PROPOSED

The aerial ladder truck committee of the Gettysburg Fire company will recommend the purchase of a used, 75-foot aerial ladder truck, 60 feet long, for service in Gettysburg, at a cost of $1,850. This decision was reached at a meeting of the committee in the fire engine house Tuesday evening.

Four members of the committee, William G. Weaver, chairman, Fire Chief James A. Aumen, Donald Jacobs and Raymond Menges, who inspected the ladder truck in Wilmington, Del., last week, reported to the full committee Tuesday evening.

The committee will recommend to council purchase of the truck by the fire company and will ask council to remodel a portion of the engine house to accommodate the huge piece of fire apparatus, "a needed vehicle in Gettysburg."

Remodel Engine House

The truck, equipped with a rear tiller, is 9 feet 6 inches high, without allowance for the fireman who will operate the tiller. The doors of the engine house are only 9 feet high. To accommodate the truck some remodeling will have to be done to the west end of the engine house.

Mr. Weaver said the ladder truck has only 5,000 miles registered on the speedometer. "It is in good condition, except for a coat of paint and some refinishing of the ladders. The aerial ladder is in excellent operating condition and we viewed a number of demonstrations while in Wilmington. The ladder is manually operated, a foot pedal releasing the first section of the ladder automatically and the other sections raised by manual operation, the mechanism for which is in good condition."

Has Good Equipment

"The committee feels that Gettysburg should purchase this truck now. It is available at $1,850 and we can have delivery in July. We were informed by fire apparatus manufacturers that new equipment will not be available for at least two years. After that time we feel that new pieces will be available at a much lower cost than now. If we purchase this used truck, Gettysburg will get at least ten years' service with it if necessary," Mr. Weaver added.

There are seven additional ground ladders 12 to 35 feet long, on the vehicle and much other equipment the committee members reported.

"We feel that we will get at least $1,850 worth of additional valuable equipment if we purchase the truck," Chairman Weaver said.

Odd Fellows Hear Harry T. Stauffer

Harry T. Stauffer, East Middle street, told of his recent trip to San Juan, Puerto Rico, to visit his son and daughter-in-law, Chief Yeoman and Mrs. Lester R. Stauffer, at the regular meeting of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows Tuesday evening.

Mr. Stauffer told of the harvesting, transporting and pressing of sugar cane. He also described the scenery and primitive living conditions of the densely populated island. His son has been stationed at San Juan for two years.

Mr. Stauffer will show slide pictures taken at Puerto Rico at a meeting of the Odd Fellows in the near future.

Worley Asks State Vote On Daylight Time

Harrisburg, April 30 (AP)—Rep. Francis Worley (R-Adams) said today he will seek a statewide referendum on the question of Daylight Saving Time in Pennsylvania.

Worley said he will ask the Local Government committee at its session this week to amend his measure making it illegal for local governmental agencies to act officially on advancing the clocks to provide for the vote at the next election.

"What I am seeking is to end the confusion that results with part of the state on Standard Time and part on Daylight Time," Worley commented.

The House recently returned to committee his measure banning local official action on the time question and imposing fines on local officials who disregard the law.

Here And There

News Collected At Random

More than a dozen of our local taxpayers, one a former town councilman, have offered a suggestion that seems particularly adaptable and timely. Each was thinking of the same thing without the others' knowledge.

The suggestion is that town council act now to build a comfort station in center square and that it be financed from revenue received from parking meters, now that the meters are paid.

Burgess Helges cited the need of a comfort station in his opening remarks to the council after his election. He expressed the hope at that time that federal aid might be secured for such a project. However, there is no money available from the federal government for a comfort station in Gettysburg.

There is no other community quite like Gettysburg . . . no other community of like size that entertains near as many visitors as we do each year. And if you don't believe that Gettysburg needs a public comfort station just ask some of the merchants, guides and others.

Another suggestion that has been offered this column is that arrangements be made for "block dances" in town this summer for the young folks.

"We have a good band . . . the Blue and Gray Band . . . and their public concerts are always well received and pleasing to town folks. Block dances could be conducted in conjunction with these concerts. A section of center square could be roped off for a couple of hours for dancing during these concerts."

School Girl Hurt When Hit By Truck

Six-year-old Lois May Aldinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Aldinger, Abbotstown R. 1, suffered numerous cuts and bruises about the face and body Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when, according to police, the child ran into the side of a truck.

State police, who investigated, said Albert C. Pugh, Chambersburg, was driving a truck west on the Lincoln Highway two miles east of Abbotstown and had slowed for a group of children who were walking on the east side of the road from school to their homes.

Just as the truck was passing, police said, the Aldinger child darted across the road to her home and struck the left front fender of the truck. She was thrown to the highway by the impact. Pugh stopped his truck and rushed the child to Dr. David I. Thompson, Abbotstown.

Ray Simmons Goes On Trial Today In Humpert Slaying; 3 Jurors Accepted By 2 P. M.

A third juror was accepted at 1:57 o'clock this afternoon out of five veniremen examined since the noon recess. The third juror was George F. Crabbs, Littlestown R. D., farmer, father of two children.

With a panel of 75 Adams county residents to select from, prosecution and defense attorneys and the court had accepted only two jurors at noon today for trial of the murder charge against Ray H. Simmons, 23, Mechanicsburg, for the hammer slaying of Herbert L. Humpert, 70-year-old Tyrone township farmer, at Humpert's home the night of March 24.

These two jurors had been accepted when court recessed at noon: Russell M. Spangler, Gettysburg R. 4, Straban township farmer. Mrs. Elsie Cashman, York Springs, housewife.

Nineteen Called By Noon

Spangler was accepted and took a seat in the jury box at 11:08 a.m. He was the seventh prospective juror called for examination.

Mrs. Cashman, who said she was the mother of five children, was accepted at 11:21 a.m. She was the ninth called.

Nineteen jurors had been called before the noon recess. Eight were excused for cause by the defense and five for cause by the prosecution. The defense exercised two of its 20 peremptory challenges; and District Attorney J. Francis Yake, only one. One juror was excused by the court upon agreement between the prosecution and court.

First name called at 10:40 a.m. this morning after a manslaughter case placed on trial Tuesday afternoon had been completed and given to a jury, was Bernard Dutera, Littlestown R. 2, farmer. He was challenged for cause by the district attorney, because he said he was opposed to capital punishment, and the challenge was sustained by the court.

List of Challenged Jurors

Others, in the order in which they were called, were:

Charles B. Bender, Gettysburg merchant, excused for cause because of a fixed opinion.

Furley Grove, East Berlin businessman, excused on a peremptory challenge by the district attorney.

Mrs. Louise Cowan, York Springs R. D., housewife, excused for cause because of scruples against capital punishment.

Fixed Opinions And Scruples

Mrs. Mildred Hilbert, Hanover R. 4, excused for cause because of scruples against capital punishment.

John Horner, Gettysburg R. 1, a clerk and typist in the office of the Adams county register and recorder, excused by the defense.

Warren Harner, Littlestown R. 1, clerk in the Littlestown State bank, excused for cause because of a fixed opinion.

Paul R. Hann, Two Taverns, a cabinet worker, excused by the defense.

Glenn Jacobs, York Springs R. D., farmer, excused by the defense.

Mrs. Florence Stonaker, Gettysburg, silk mill floorlady, excused for cause because of a fixed opinion.

Others Challenged

Roy A. Starnes, Hanover R. 1, excused for cause because of scruples against the death penalty.

Orville Sentz, Littlestown R. 2, press operator at The Times and News Publishing company, Gettysburg, excused for cause because of a fixed opinion.

Edward Elker, Gettysburg R. D. (Biglerville road), excused for cause for scruples against capital punishment.

P. E. Brough, York Springs R. D., retired, excused by agreement.

Curvin Mickle, Orrtanna R. D., farmer, excused for cause for a fixed opinion.

To Draw 14 Jurors

Allen Holtzworth, Gettysburg, battlefield guide, excused for cause of fixed opinion.

Fourteen jurors were to be drawn for the Simmons case, 12 jurors and two alternates. At the jurors were being accepted, two in the first hour and 20 minutes this morning, and with only 75 in the panel to be picked from, there was an indication that additional extra jurors might be necessary.

Staley Trial To Follow

Trial of the Simmons case took precedence over that of Robert L. Staley, 23, Mechanicsburg, indicted jointly with Simmons for the Humpert murder. Attorney Richard A. Brown, representing Simmons, however asked for and obtained a separate trial for his client. Staley was not in court today.

The Simmons defense lost in two attempts to obtain a change of venue or continuance of the case until the August term, first when motions were denied by Judge W. C. Sheely here, and again Tuesday, when similar motions were turned (Please Turn to Page Two)

Babes Born To Mothers From 12 To 51 Years Of Age And To Dads 16 To 75, Report Shows

The Gettysburg area's vital statistics approximate a small scale reproduction of national figures, local Registrar Ralph Geiselman disclosed today.

Checking local figures against the national statistics, Geiselman found that in recent years a 51-year-old local woman gave birth to a child, while the national figures for 1945, which were released this month, showed that 161 mothers between 50 and 55 years of age bore children in 1945. And 67 births occurred in cases where mothers were 55 or over.

The youngest local mother was 12, and the national figures show 3,573 births to mothers between 10 and 14 years of age.

Fathers 16 to 75

While no figures are available on a national scale for the fathers, Geiselman found locally that the youngest recorded father was 16 and the oldest, 75.

Of the 2,735,456 births recorded in the U. S. in 1945, the largest number of mothers were between 20 and 24 years, with 796,849 children credited to that group. The 25 to 29-year-old mothers were next with 755,365 children. Mothers between 30 and 34 bore 532,239 children. The 15 to 19-year-old group and the 35 to 39 groups were about even, with 280,997 and 280,641 children respectively.

Of the births to mothers between 10 and 14 years of age, 12 were second children. Of those children born to mothers between 15 and 19 years of age, 669 were the sixth child in the families.

Of those born to mothers between 20 and 24 years of age, 234 were "twelfth or over." In 1,670 cases those children born to the 30 to 34 year old mothers were 12th or more in the family and of the 33 to 39 year old mothers, 6,719 of the births were of the 12th child or better.

Of the mothers who were 55 or over seven of the children were the first; nine, the second; five, the third; two, the fourth; six, the fifth; five, the sixth; two, the seventh; five, the eighth; two, the ninth; two, the tenth; three, the 11th, and eight, 12th or over.

The national figures disclose that many families are large. Of the total births, 131,558 were the fifth child, 33,256, the sixth; 56,029, the seventh; 38,565, the eighth; 26,654, the ninth; 18,348, the tenth, 11,799, the 11th and 16,881 the 12th or over.

Weather Forecast
Mostly cloudy, windy and continued warm with showers tonight and Thursday.

workers will still go on." Mayer said he understood the New York settlement provided a $4 weekly boost.

A government official participating in the Pennsylvania negotiations who asked not to be named, said the contract terms "likely will set the pattern" for a national settlement. He added that union-management talks underway in Washington might wind up with an agreement in "less than 48 hours."

Joseph Beirne, president of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, representing 39 affiliates in the nationwide work stoppage, told a reporter he had no comment, either on the Pennsylvania-New York agreements or on Mayer's statement.

POSTMASTER AT FAIRFIELD ENDS SERVICES TODAY

George M. Neely today retires as postmaster at Fairfield, after having served 12 years and two months. Mr. Neely's term started March 1, 1935.

During the twelve years of Mr. Neely's service, the U. S. Postal Department was called upon to assume many new assignments including the disbursement of First World War Bonds, the initial Social Security enrollment, and the many drives for sale of War Bonds. During World War 2 the volume of outgoing and incoming mail was heavily increased over normal but with all these extra assignments, Mr. Neely and the entire postal personnel assumed them "as a patriotic duty and privilege."

Despite a natural recession from war time business, Mr. Neely reports that the volume of cash sales now is more than double that shown when he took over March 1, 1935.

Served Three Times Before
In addition to the postmastership just terminated by Mr. Neely, he has served at three other periods.

The first was during the Benjamin Harrison administration when the general store of the late J. U. Neely and John M. Musselman was the location of the Fairfield post office. Mr. Musselman man was the postmaster and J. U. Neely his assistant. It was during this time 1889-1891, that the Western Maryland railroad between Orrtanna and Highfield was being constructed. The laborers employed on project were mostly natives of Italy and Austria. This large new influx of laborers greatly increased business for the merchants and post office.

The business in the post office department was especially brisk on pay days when the workmen brought most of their pay, all in currency, to be sent to their families in Europe by registered mail. It was then that the grocery delivery boy, George Neely, although barely a "teen-ager" was pressed in to help with those pay day registered letters and Mr. Neely says he has no

News Briefs

New York, April 30 (AP)—India reopened the Palestine debate here today with a plea to give the Jews a voice in the proceedings of the special assembly of the United Nations. Noting that the assembly's 14-nation steering committee had heard the spokesmen of five Arab states present their views yesterday, Indian delegate Asaf Ali asked: "Where are the representatives of the Jewish people who will be affected? Where is Palestine?"

Washington, April 30 (AP)—The House formally voted today to slash the administration's $350,000,000 foreign relief fund to $200,000,000 and placed tight restrictions on distribution of American relief in countries under Russian domination.

The restriction would deny relief assistance to "those countries whose governments are dominated by the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics" unless they agree to American control of the supplies.

Pastor Leaves

The Rev. Robert H. Sheehan, pastor of Centenary Methodist church, Littlestown, for the last two years, will move Thursday to Conyngham, Pa., to which place he was transferred at the annual sessions of the Central Pennsylvania conference at Harrisburg last week. ## Littlestown EX-CHAPLAIN IS ROTARY SPEAKER

Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, former Army chaplain, and pastor of Redeemer's Reformed church, spoke to the Rotary club of Littlestown Tuesday evening on the topic "Why I Am Proud of Being an American."

He also brought out some interesting facts about American church history. When the Declaration of Independence was signed, only five per cent of the people were affiliated with a Christian church, he stated; now 50 per cent are affiliated. He described the work of the church among the Indians, negroes and immigrants accustomed to state-controlled churches in Europe.

The speaker stated that there are more different denominations in America than in any other country, but that they get along better than in any other country.

Edward T. Richardson was selected as delegate to the annual 181st District conference to be held at Hershey Sunday to Tuesday. In addition to Mr. Richardson and Mrs. Richardson, the following are planning to attend: Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Dunbar, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley B. Stover, and Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Riden.

On Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ritter and Mr. and Mrs. Luther W. Ritter expect to be present. Mr. Dunbar will be the principal speaker on Tuesday morning.

Tuesday's meeting was in charge of the Classification and Membership committee, composed of L. D. Snyder, Richard A. Little, Mervin Harner, and William V. Sneiderger. Members welcomed back Dr. Howard A. Stonieser, who, with his wife, spent a month in California visiting their daughter.

The Lions club will hold its semi-monthly meeting on Thursday evening. The Convention Committee will have charge. One member of this committee, John R. Bloom, is in the hospital at Fort Howard. The other member is Sterling Wisotzkey.

LADDER TRUCK PURCHASE WILL BE PROPOSED

The aerial ladder truck committee of the Gettysburg Fire company will recommend the purchase of a used, 75-foot aerial ladder truck, 60 feet long, for service in Gettysburg, at a cost of $1,850. This decision was reached at a meeting of the committee in the fire engine house Tuesday evening.

Four members of the committee, William G. Weaver, chairman, Fire Chief James A. Aumen, Donald Jacobs and Raymond Menges, who inspected the ladder truck in Wilmington, Del., last week, reported to the full committee Tuesday evening.

The committee will recommend to council purchase of the truck by the fire company and will ask council to remodel a portion of the engine house to accommodate the huge piece of fire apparatus, "a needed vehicle in Gettysburg."

Remodel Engine House

The truck, equipped with a rear tiller, is 9 feet 6 inches high, without allowance for the fireman who will operate the tiller. The doors of the engine house are only 9 feet high. To accommodate the truck some remodeling will have to be done to the west end of the engine house.

Mr. Weaver said the ladder truck has only 5,000 miles registered on the speedometer. "It is in good condition, except for a coat of paint and some refinishing of the ladders. The aerial ladder is in excellent operating condition and we viewed a number of demonstrations while in Wilmington. The ladder is manually operated, a foot pedal releasing the first section of the ladder automatically and the other sections raised by manual operation, the mechanism for which is in good condition."

Has Good Equipment

"The committee feels that Gettysburg should purchase this truck now. It is available at $1,850 and we can have delivery in July. We were informed by fire apparatus manufacturers that new equipment will not be available for at least two years. After that time we feel that new pieces will be available at a much lower cost than now. If we purchase this used truck, Gettysburg will get at least ten years' service with it if necessary," Mr. Weaver added.

There are seven additional ground ladders 12 to 35 feet long on the vehicle and much other equipment the committee members reported. "We feel that we will get at least $1,850 worth of additional valuable equipment if we purchase the truck," Chairman Weaver said.

Odd Fellows Hear Harry T. Stauffer

Harry T. Stauffer, East Middle street, told of his recent trip to San Juan, Puerto Rico, to visit his son and daughter-in-law, Chief Yeoman and Mrs. Lester R. Stauffer, at the regular meeting of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows Tuesday evening.

Mr. Stauffer told of the harvesting, transporting and pressing of sugar cane. He also described the scenery and primitive living conditions of the densely populated island. His son has been stationed at San Juan for two years.

Mr. Stauffer will show slide pictures taken at Puerto Rico at a meeting of the Odd Fellows in the near future.

Babes Born To Mothers From 12 To 51 Years Of Age And To Dads 16 To 75, Report Shows

The Gettysburg area's vital statistics approximate a small scale reproduction of national figures, local Registrar Ralph Geiselman disclosed today.

Checking local figures against the national statistics, Geiselman found that in recent years a 51-year-old local woman gave birth to a child, while the national figures for 1945, which were released this month, showed that 161 mothers between 50 and 55 years of age bore children in 1945. And 67 births occurred in cases where mothers were 55 or over.

The youngest local mother was 12, and the national figures show 3,573 births to mothers between 10 and 14 years of age.

Fathers 16 to 75
While no figures are available on a national scale for the fathers, Geiselman found locally that the youngest recorded father was 16 and the oldest, 75.

Of the 2,735,456 births recorded in the U. S. in 1945, the largest number of mothers were between 20 and 24 years, with 796,849 children credited to that group. The 25 to 29-year-old mothers were next with 755,365 children. Mothers between 30 and 34 bore 532,239 children. The 15 to 19-year-old group and the 35 to 39 groups were about even, with 280,997 and 280,641 children respectively.

Of the births to mothers between 10 and 14 years of age, 12 were second children. Of those children born to mothers between 15 and 19 years of age, 669 were the sixth child in the families.

Of those born to mothers between 20 and 24 years of age, 234 were "twelfth or over." In 1,670 cases those children born to the 30 to 34 year old mothers were 12th or more in the family and of the 33 to 39 year old mothers, 6,719 of the births were of the 12th child or better.

Of the mothers who were 55 or over seven of the children were the first; nine, the second; five, the third; two, the fourth; six, the fifth; five, the sixth; two, the seventh; five, the eighth; two, the ninth; two, the tenth; three, the 11th, and eight, 12th or over.

The national figures disclose that many families are large. Of the total births, 131,558 were the fifth child, 83,256, the sixth; 56,029, the seventh; 38,565, the eighth; 26,654, the ninth; 18,348, the tenth, 11,799, the 11th and 16,881 the 12th or over.

Worley Asks State Vote On Daylight Time

Harrisburg, April 30 (AP) — Rep. Francis Worley (R-Adams) said today he will seek a statewide referendum on the question of Daylight Saving Time in Pennsylvania.

Worley said he will ask the Local Government committee at its session this week to amend his measure making it illegal for local governmental agencies to act officially on advancing the clocks to provide for the vote at the next election.

"What I am seeking is to end the confusion that results with part of the state on Standard Time and part on Daylight Time," Worley commented.

The House recently returned to committee his measure banning local official action on the time question and imposing fines on local officials who disregard the law.

Here And There News Collected At Random

More than a dozen of our local taxpayers, one a former town councilman, have offered a suggestion that seems particularly adaptable and timely. Each was thinking of the same thing without the others' knowledge.

The suggestion is that town council act now to build a comfort station in center square and that it be financed from revenue received from parking meters, now that the meters are paid.

Burgess Helges cited the need of a comfort station in his opening remarks to the council after his election. He expressed the hope at that time that federal aid might be secured for such a project. However, there is no money available from the federal government for a comfort station in Gettysburg.

There is no other community quite like Gettysburg . . . no other community of like size that entertains near as many visitors as we do each year. And if you don't believe that Gettysburg needs a public comfort station just ask some of the merchants, guides and others.

Another suggestion that has been offered this column is that arrangements be made for "block dances" in town this summer for the young folks.

"We have a good band . . . the Blue and Gray Band . . . and their public concerts are always well received and pleasing to town folks. Block dances could be conducted in conjunction with these concerts. A section of center square could be roped off for a couple of hours for dancing during these concerts."

School Girl Hurt When Hit By Truck

Six-year-old Lois May Aldinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Aldinger, Abbotstown R. 1, suffered numerous cuts and bruises about the face and body Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when, according to police, the child ran into the side of a truck.

State police, who investigated, said Albert C. Pugh, Chambersburg, was driving a truck west on the Lincoln Highway two miles east of Abbotstown and had slowed for a group of children who were walking on the east side of the road from school to their homes.

Just as the truck was passing, police said, the Aldinger child darted across the road to her home and struck the left front fender of the truck. She was thrown to the highway by the impact. Pugh stopped his truck and rushed the child to Dr. David I. Thompson, Abbotstown.

BLOSSOM TIME HAS ARRIVED IN ADAMS COUNTY

Adams county's 217,000 cherry trees should be in full blossom this week-end, County Agent M. T. Hartman estimated today and the county's 600,000 apple trees will probably reach their peak of blossom perfection in about ten days.

The 400,000 peach trees reached their peak since last week-end but many will still be in bloom over the coming week-end, Hartman added. Weather continuing, the cherry blossoms should be a sea of white beauty against the nearby hills within the next three days, Hartman said.

A survey Tuesday disclosed that the cherry blossoms are opening rapidly and that the apple blossoms are approaching the pink stage. The apple blossoms are still clustered, but are expected to unfold during the next week, with the peak of the bloom about May 11.

Cold Damage Slight
Some of the early variety apples should be in blossom for this week-end and visitors should be able to see both fruit and dogwood blossoms. The battlefield's famed dogwood is also to be at its peak during the period.

Hartman said his survey showed the trees well budded and the prospects, still barring unfavorable weather, are for a large bloom.

The cold weather the early part of this week apparently caused only slight damage, the county agent added. His survey showed sweet cherry the hardest hit, but it was not believed that any extensive damage was done by the two frosts Monday and Tuesday.

YORKER DRIVES 1902 CAR HERE

Despite the fact that "old motor cars" have been in the majority around the borough for the past few years, an old car Tuesday afternoon drew hundreds of curious when it parked near the court house.

The "go-mobile" was a 1902 Sears-Roebuck motor buggy, and the name described the looks of the car. It is a buggy with a motor attached to drive it, by chains.

The machine arrived in town shortly after 1 o'clock with its owner, J. J. Ruth who said he drove here from York in about one hour elapsed time, to transact some business at the court house.

Once, Ruth said. He is using the seventh set of tires and estimates that the car has been driven about 100,000 miles.

Plans Long Trip
He plans to add a little more mileage this summer by driving it from coast-to-coast.

The motor, located under the floor boards, has 2 cylinders and the gasoline in the cylinders is fired by two high tension coils run by six dry cells. Two chain drives from the motor extend to the two 36 inch solid rubber tire rear wheels.

The upright steering post is on the left side. Ruth says the car can travel 30 miles an hour and 15 miles to the gallon. The gas tank holds five gallons.

Miss Josephine Klinedinst, York, who drove part of the way to Gettysburg confessed the vehicle frightened her. "Its 30 miles an hour seems six times as fast in an ordinary car," she says. Built like a buggy, the vehicle is open in front and on all sides.

PALESTINE IS A CENTER FOR POWER POLITICS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

As was anticipated, the Palestine problem is producing variegated fireworks right at the start of its consideration by a United Nations which isn't too happy in the knowledge that it must render a judgment of Solomon if the issue is to be settled.

There was one heavy outburst yesterday when India challenged Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, to give assurances that England would abide by recommendations of the Palestine session of the U. N. assembly. Sir Alexander retorted that Britain couldn't be expected to "expend blood and treasure single-handed" to carry out recommendations of the U. N. on the future of Palestine.

That could be the acme of diplomacy because, while it seems self-explanatory, it actually doesn't say "no" and it doesn't say "yes." One suspects that Sir Alexander was being non-committal in order to leave the way open for Britain's formal answer at a later date. However, that may be, the incident does illustrate the delicacy of the situation.

Seeks Way To Solution

The U. N. is faced with what many pessimists would call an "impossible" task. It involves not only establishing a national home for Jews but safeguarding the interests of the big Arab population which out-numbers the Jews about two to one — the total population of the country being estimated at close to 1,800,000. And there are other items — of which more anon.

Still, it strikes me that the problem would be susceptible of solution if it could be confined to the interests of the inhabitants. I observed during visits to the Holy Land that the rank and file of Jews and Arabs get along well together if left alone, despite clashes among the upper registers of the two races. The current conflict in Palestine isn't between Jews and Arabs, but between some Jews and the British.

So it's our guess that if the U. N. finds an answer to the puzzle it will be based on the fundamental fact that the Jews and Arabs can live together amicably under normal conditions.

Unfortunately that isn't the whole story. If it were, the solution would be comparatively simple. The greatest obstacle lies in the fact that Palestine is so strategically located that its control is of vast interest to the major powers — militarily, politically and economically.

INVENTOR SUES 3 GLASS FIRMS

Pittsburgh, April 29 (AP)—Charging three glass companies with "conspiracy in restraint of trade," an Allison Park inventor yesterday filed suit in federal court for $1,500,000 damages under the anti-trust laws.

Peter Kucera, the inventor, said the damage claim was based on alleged failure of the Hartford-Empire company, Hartford, Conn., to manufacture and market commercially a glass gob feeding machine he developed.

Kucera charged the Hartford firm's action stemmed from agreements made with the other defendant companies, Owens-Illinois Glass company, Toledo, Ohio, and the Hazel-Atlas Glass company, Wheeling, W. Va., in July, 1932. The Hartford company's purchase of his invention on August 25, 1932, was in furtherance of this "conspiracy in restraint of trade," Kucera's petition said.

Although the actual amount named in the suit was only $500,000, the complainant sued under a section of the law which allows treble damages in event the suit is sustained. Kucera claimed the $500,000 represented loss of profits under an agreement providing a $500 royalty to him for each machine sold.

Boy Helps Recover Loot From Robbery

Camden, N. J., April 30 (AP)—A 14-year-old boy has aided in the recovery of all but $800 cash of a $15,800 robbery at a suburban Camden real estate office, New Jersey state police said today.

The boy, whose name police did not disclose, led them to an abandoned grain elevator where $4,000 in war bonds were cached. Earlier the same youth turned over bonds worth $11,000 at Gloucester.

The bonds and cash were taken Monday from the Leon M. Clair real estate office at nearby Brooklawn.

Veto Talk Heard On Portal Pay Bill

Washington, April 30 (AP)—Talk of a presidential veto circulated in Congress today before either House or Senate took up hard-fought compromise legislation to outlaw most portal pay claims.

Senator McGrath (D-R.I.) told a reporter the compromise "fails to meet the objections of Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, who said he would recommend a veto of both Senate and House bills."

McGrath, who sat in the month-long Senate-House conference dispute over the complicated legislation, declined to sign the final agreement yesterday.

He said its provisions would create a "field day of litigation which will be expensive and annoying to employees, employers and the government."

Washington, April 30 (AP)—Senate Democratic leader Barkley announced after a White House call today he will support a proposal to break up the Senate's catch-all labor bill into four separate measures.

The Senate has agreed to vote by 1 p. m. (EST) on the move by Senator Morse (R-Ore) to send the measure back to committee for that purpose. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) predicted rejection.

Barkley told reporters after talking with President Truman that Mr. Truman felt he could not commit himself on labor legislation until it reaches his desk.

"He naturally hopes Congress can enact legislation he can approve," the Kentucky lawmaker said.

Washington, April 30 (AP)—George C. Blohm of Chicago, representing approximately 800 newspapers, asked Congress today to safeguard freedom of the press by "making it clear that news-gathering agencies may choose their own membership without violating the anti-trust laws."

The newspapers Blohm represents have organized into the "news publishers association" to amend the anti-trust laws.

The association is supporting legislation introduced by Rep. Mason (R-Ill) to clarify the status of news gathering agencies as a result of the 1945 Supreme Court decision in the justice department's anti-trust suit against the Associated Press.

The court directed the AP to amend its by-laws which permitted members to consider the competitive effect of an application for membership.

Washington, April 30 (AP)—Senate Democratic leader Barkley announced after a White House call today he will support a proposal to break up the Senate's catch-all labor bill into four separate measures.

The Senate has agreed to vote by 1 p. m. (EST) on the move by Senator Morse (R-Ore) to send the measure back to committee for that purpose. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) predicted rejection.

Barkley told reporters after talking with President Truman that Mr. Truman felt he could not commit himself on labor legislation until it reaches his desk.

"He naturally hopes Congress can enact legislation he can approve," the Kentucky lawmaker said.

Washington, April 30 (AP)—George C. Blohm of Chicago, representing approximately 800 newspapers, asked Congress today to safeguard freedom of the press by "making it clear that news-gathering agencies may choose their own membership without violating the anti-trust laws."

The newspapers Blohm represents have organized into the "news publishers association" to amend the anti-trust laws.

The association is supporting legislation introduced by Rep. Mason (R-Ill) to clarify the status of news gathering agencies as a result of the 1945 Supreme Court decision in the justice department's anti-trust suit against the Associated Press.

The court directed the AP to amend its by-laws which permitted members to consider the competitive effect of an application for membership.

Records from India indicate that cotton was used there as early as 3,000 years before Christ.

Pittston, Pa., (AP)—Residents of Pittston are finding this daylight saving time business pretty confusing. The city is officially on Eastern Standard Time while the business firms, banks and post offices operate on "fast time."

City council agreed to miners' requests that it operate on standard time and public schools followed along—but parochial pupils are going to classes on daylight time schedules.

'APPEASEMENT' IS RULED OUT
BY MARSHALL

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Four points stand out above all others in Secretary of State Marshall's grave and blunt report to the nation regarding the deadlocked Moscow conference:

1. There still is a possibility of composing the differences between Russia and the western democracies.
2. However, haste is necessary because disintegration is becoming evident in Europe.
3. The general placed the blame for the failure of the conference squarely on Russian obstructive tactics.
4. There must be no sacrifice of principle for the sake of appeasement.

Patience Necessary

Marshall disclosed that in his private conversation with Premier Stalin just before the conference collapsed, the Soviet chief said that while it was possible no great success would be achieved in the current parley yet he (Stalin) thought compromises were possible on the main questions. The generalissimo said it was necessary to have patience and not become pessimistic.

This can only be interpreted as an invitation to hope that future Big Four meetings will produce agreement. However, the next conference to write the all important German and Austrian treaties is set for November, with some conversations possible in September when the Assembly of the United Nations is in session.

This means a lag of six precious months, and Marshall in speaking of the need of haste declared that "the patient (Europe) is sinking while the doctors deliberate."

Action Cannot Wait

"So I believe," he added, "that action cannot await compromise through exhaustion. New issues arise daily. Whatever action is possible to meet these pressing problems must be taken without delay."

The Secretary didn't specify what action he had in mind, but he did make clear the economic disintegration which is going on in Germany and Austria because of the failure of the Allies to agree on the economic and political measures for rehabilitation. And this disintegration in those key countries of Central Europe is affecting surrounding nations. Moreover, while it wasn't an issue at the Moscow conference, we can see the dangers of the precarious situation in which Greece and Turkey find themselves.

BIGLER SCHOOL

As a result it is discussing the possibility of closing and sending its pupils to Biglerville, he said.

"Biglerville with 21 teachers in its high school and five in its grade school has enough students to meet most of the requirements and is not in bad shape," Kleinfelter said.

$82,000 Bigler Budget

At present, he said, "students from Butler, Tyrone, and Menallen townships, Bendersville, part of Huntingtown township, Straban, Reading, Latimore and York Springs attend the Biglerville high school. From those students the school board receives $8.80 per pupil per month in tuition. All told, we receive about $36,000 per year from tuition, and about the same amount from the state as our reimbursement. The taxpayers pay about $10,800 in Biglerville toward the upkeep of their school out of the budget of $82,000."

In response to a question as to why the board could not keep on as in the past, merely collecting tuition from students of outside districts, Principal Leslie V. Stock pointed out that "tuition students would not be the answer in connection with the surrounding school problem of the surrounding districts, and it is not the answer for the high school problem."

"The state does not provide such reimbursement on elementary students so those school districts which send elementary students here would have to pay the full amount."

No Profit Involved

"And tuition pupils in high schools eventually become a liability rather than an asset. The school system has to provide for them, but it cannot make a profit on them, or charge any capital outlay against them. If Biglerville had to build a new room or two to take care of tuition pupils, Biglerville would have to pay the entire cost of the new rooms, and could not charge anything against the tuition pupils. Under a merger the various boards would work out the problem to their own best judgment. The boards could build the additional rooms, if needed, together, or pay rent, or handle it in whatever manner was deemed advisable."

"Under a joint system each board would retain its own identity, and in the election of teachers, setting of teachers' pay or in making any capital outlay boards must agree. Under a joint system any one board could stop the other boards from doing anything it may feel to be wrong," he added.

Under a merger, it was pointed out, the present buildings at Biglerville would remain the property of the Biglerville board. Under a jointure with other districts in the upper end the elementary situation would be somewhat relieved at Biglerville, Stock also said. Under present plans, as discussed an elementary center would be set up at Ardenstville, and students would be more equitably divided between the two centers with about 180 students, sufficient for six teaching units, at each school.

Babe Ruth Caught Slight Cold Sunday

New York, April 29 (AP)—Babe Ruth is suffering from a slight cold, believed to have been induced by exposure and the excitement of his appearance at Yankee stadium Sunday when 58,339 fans honored him.

Mrs. Ruth said that the former home run king's participation in the ceremonies had proved very tiring and that he "was completely overwhelmed" by festivities. She said he spent Monday morning in bed and had a slight temperature.

The telephone jangled so incessantly yesterday with inquiries about the Babe's health that members of his family were forced to leave calls unanswered.

Butler, Pa., April 29 (AP)—Louis N. Hinchberger, 68, father of Dr. Paul Hinchberger of this city, was burned to death in an explosion on a farm near here. The blast occurred when someone poured tractor fuel on an open fire while preparing to heat water to scald butchered pigs. Six other men suffered burns.

Th engine and 25 freight cars of a New York Central train were derailed inside and outside of a tunnel near New Lexington, Ohio, and railroad officials expressed belief that a section of the tunnel wall, weakened by rain, collapsed on the track and caused the derailment.

Easton Reveals 10
Diphtheria Deaths

Easton, Pa., April 29 (AP)—Vigorous precautionary measures were taken by Easton health authorities today to prevent an outbreak of diphtheria among children following disclosure that 10 youngsters had died recently of the disease.

Dr. Anthony J. Sparta, city health officer, insisted in a radio broadcast that there is "no cause for alarm" and declared that the situation was not out of control.

The Easton board of health, however, declared an emergency and ordered immediate immunization of all children who have never had this protection.

The 10 deaths, Dr. Sparta said, originally were attributed to streptococcal throat infections. Fifty-nine cases of "strep throat" were reported since last November, he added. Investigation disclosed that the deaths were due to "complications following diphtheria."

PREDICTS HOT RACE THIS YEAR IN INTERSTATE

(Associated Press Sports Writer)
With every club strengthened by the infusion of new blood the Interstate league opens its 1947 campaign today under a new president and every team is confident of carrying off the pennant.

Gerald Nugent, newly elected head of the Class B circuit, predicted last night that the race for the 1947 flag would be the best in the history of the organization.

Speaking before the Harrisburg Sportswriters association, at a dinner tendered in his honor, Nugent said that only one club was unprepared for today's opener, explaining that construction difficulties would prevent York from playing any home games during the month of May.

Praises Cooperation
"It was amazing to me to find the fine spirit of cooperation that exists in our league," said Nugent in telling of the York situation. "Every club responded to my appeal to help York, and despite the fact that they cannot play at home for nearly a month, the other teams have arranged to give the York fans their full quota of home dates by a voluntary re-arrangement of the schedule."

Nugent said the Wilmington Blue Rocks, pennant winners of 1946, and the Harrisburg Senators, winners of the play-off for the Governor's trophy, would both have strong teams on the field this year.

He added that the other six teams, Lancaster, York, Allentown, Hagerstown, Sunbury, and Trenton were all stronger than in 1946, and every club looked for the hustling young recruits to provide plenty of snappy ball during the entire campaign.

Today's opening card, all night games, finds York at Harrisburg, Trenton at Allentown, Hagerstown at Sunbury, and Wilmington at Lancaster.

KEARNS AFTER JOE WALCOTT

Camden, N. J., April 30 (AP)—Jack Kearns, who guided Jack Dempsey to the heavyweight title in days gone by, was in Camden today to try to persuade Jersey Joe Walcott to go through with a heavyweight bout against his new protege, Joey Maxim of Cleveland.

A Walcott-Maxim bout would be part of an elimination campaign to determine who would meet Joe Louis for the heavyweight title.

Crooner Frank Sinatra earlier reported that Walcott and Maxim had agreed to fight at Hollywood, Calif., June 16, but Walcott said he had signed no contract.

Louis Wants Playoff
The National Boxing association is on record favoring a Walcott-Louis fight for the championship without any eliminations.

However, Walcott, Maxim, light-heavyweight titlist Gus Lesnevich, and Melton Bettina are regarded by Louis as contenders and the champion is attempting to arrange a sort of playoff to name the challenger.

Walcott, an aging Camden negro, fought two bouts with Maxim, winning one and losing the other in an unpopular decision. His manager, Joe Webster, was reported not inclined to accept the Hollywood match despite frequent telephone calls from Sinatra.

The elderly Kearns, who is considered a pretty fair persuader, came armed with new offers from Sinatra, but financial terms were not disclosed.

Sports Roundup

New York, April 30 (AP)—This may be a heck of a time to be discussing winter sports, but a note from Stillwater, Okla., mentions that Hank Iba is advocating more pay and security for basketball officials; New York Rangers officials already are planning to move into Lex Thompson's "eagles nest" at Saranac Lake when the Philly Eagles move out and the pro basketball association comes up with its first post-season trade. . . . # BULLETS SLUG HARD TO NIP BUCKNELL 9-5

Ira Plank's Gettysburg College baseball team broke loose with a 15-hit barrage to defeat Bucknell Tuesday afternoon at Lewisburg 9-5.

Pacing the Bullet attack was Joe Cervino who poled homers in the third and eighth innings. In addition to a single, Russ Wileman smashed out another Bullet homer in the first inning.

Extra base hits featured the Bullet's scoring in the first, third and eighth innings. In addition to Wileman's homer in the initial inning, Ecker poled a triple in the same frame, Martz pounded out a triple preceding Cervino's homer in the third while Tony Cervino connected for a three-base blow in the eighth following brother Joe's second round tripper.

The victory marked the fourth for the Bullet against two setbacks. Today the Plankmen oppose the strong Penn State nine at State College. Jack Bacon is scheduled to hurl for the locals.

LEWIS STARTS NEW CONTRACT BATTLE TODAY

By HAROLD W. WARD
Washington, April 30 (AP)—John L. Lewis began a new contract fight today with one third of the soft coal industry determined to block another nationwide wage agreement.

The powerful southern coal producers association served notice at government-sponsored preliminary talks yesterday that while it is eager to make a contract with Lewis separately, industry-wide bargaining in "impractical and undesirable" from the standpoint of its members.

The southerners enjoyed a 10 cent an hour wage differential until 1941 and, generally speaking, hope to make fewer concessions this year than some of the other operator groups have indicated they may be willing to grant Lewis.

Brings Recess
The mine leader's first move was to challenge, in effect, the tonnage behind each of the operators lined up against a national agreement.

He demanded to know how much bituminous coal was produced by each of the 32 producer groups represented at the preliminary session. Some of the negotiators represent sub-groups of the larger operator associations.

Lewis' demand led to a recess in the discussions until 3 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, today.

After that session, the United Mine Workers chief planned to meet with his 200-man policy committee, which he summoned formally for the first time since his present contract with the government was ratified last May—to end the 59-day spring strike.

Cover Cracks With New Insulating Tile

Cracked and discolored ceilings can be quickly refinished with insulating board tile or pre-decorated building board. Before the advent of these attractive, low-cost materials the usual remedy was a complete replastering job. The units are applied directly over the old ceiling or to wood furring strips, which are nailed through the old plaster.

Decorating costs are saved when insulating board tile is used, and the many colors available make innumerable blend or contrast effects possible.

Biglerville and Boiling Springs high schools maintained their unbeaten records in the Adams County Scholastic Baseball league by snatching victories Tuesday afternoon. New Oxford and Fairfield also gained triumphs.

Ed Weigle hurried Biglerville to a 3-1 victory over York Springs on the latter's diamond, permitting but four hits. A three-run uprising in the sixth inning gave the Cannons victory.

A nine-run attack in the seventh inning enabled Boiling Springs to crush Littlestown 13-5 on the Littlestown field.
Despite being out 8-3, New Oxford pushed over a run in the last half of the seventh to defeat Arendtsville 4-3 at New Oxford. The winning run came on a walk to E. Mechtly, an infield out and an advance to third base on a passed ball. Mechtly was trapped off third base but raced home on a wild throw to the plate.

Fairfield high rallied four runs in the last of the third inning to nose out East Berlin 7-6 at Fairfield. R. Weikert started for Fairfield but gave way to J. Weikert in the fourth. After walking the first three batters the latter gave way to Darrel Wolf who got the next batter on a fly and fanned two batsmen to smother the rally.

HERMAN GIVES HIS IDEAS FOR GOOD MANAGER

Philadelphia, April 30 (AP)—Billy Herman has his own code for managerial success—and apparently it's paying off for the new pilot of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Billy brought his power-laden Bucs to Philadelphia yesterday and HR (Home Run) Sr., Mr. Hank Greenberg, and HR Jr., Mr. Ralph Kiner helped themselves to four-basers to give the Pirates a 6-2 decision over the Phillies.

At this point of the season, the Pirates—a seventh-place club a year ago—are in third, two games out of first place.

And what does it take to be a winning manager, Mr. Herman?

Here's the formula:

"Keep Them Hustling"
"Keep your players hustling. Make them believe in you. Don't be unreasonable. Let the player know you know about his troubles. Keep him playing his best every minute—and I think that kind of manager is liable to find his team up front."

"It's something for me, sure," said the man who still rates as one of the best hit and run artists in baseball. "When I was a player, all I had to do was pay attention to my job at second base and follow the manager's signs when we were trying to win a game."

"I suppose," he mused, "some of the managers I played for didn't sleep, but I don't intend to play baseball that way. I think most new managers try to copy managers they played for."

"Some managers think they are John McGraws. Others think they can do the things Connie Mack did. Or they may try to be a Joe McCarthy," Herman said, adding: "I can't go for that idea. I don't copy any manager, for baseball and players change from one year to the other. What may have been the winning way for McGraw doesn't win today."

Tries Good Ideas
"Look! As a player I worked under Rogers Hornsby, Charlie Grimm, Gabby Hartnett, Jimmy Wilson, Leo Durocher and Billy Southworth. Each of these fellows had different ideas. Some of their ideas were good, others I thought were bad.

"I never was a clubhouse lawyer. I never opened my mouth when I thought a manager was making a mistake. But I watched and listened.

"Now that I'm a manager, I've tried to throw out the ideas that I didn't like and incorporate the ones that I thought were good.

"The most important thing for any manager to do, I think, is be himself."

2 DIE AS MAIL PICKUP PLANE CRASHES, BURNS

Bellefonte, Pa., April 30 (AP)—Trapped in the flaming wreckage of an airmail plane which crashed near the Bellefonte airport, two men were burned to death yesterday before rescuers could drag them to safety.

A spokesman for All-American Aviation, Inc., operating the mail line, identified the dead as:

Gearhart (Gary) Porter, 35, pilot, and Robert (Bob) Schneider, 23, mechanic, both of Pittsburgh.
The plane nosedived into the ground in a field adjoining the airport from an altitude of about 35 feet after it missed an air pickup of mail on a swooping glide over the airport, William O. Thomas, a pilot at the field, who witnessed the accident, said.

One Victim a Veteran
He said the plane bounced as it hit the ground and then turned over on its back, trapping the two men in their seats. Shortly afterwards it burst into flames, preventing rescuers from removing the bodies for several hours. The mail cargo was also destroyed.

The plane was en route from Williamsport to Pittsburgh and made its daily pickup here at 5:55 p. m. (EST).
Company officials said the cause of the crash has not yet been determined.

Porter was a native of Danville, near Williamsport, but had lived in Pittsburgh since March, 1943, when he became a pilot for All-American. He was married but had no children.
Schneider was a bombardier on a B-17 Flying Fortress and saw overseas service during the war.

PREDICTS HOT RACE THIS YEAR IN INTERSTATE

By TOM SHRIVER

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

With every club strengthened by the infusion of new blood the Interstate league opens its 1947 campaign today under a new president and every team is confident of carrying off the pennant.

Gerald Nugent, newly elected head of the Class B circuit, predicted last night that the race for the 1947 flag would be the best in the history of the organization.

Speaking before the Harrisburg Sportswriters association, at a dinner tendered in his honor, Nugent said that only one club was unprepared for today's opener, explaining that construction difficulties would prevent York from playing any home games during the month of May.

Fraises Cooperation
"It was amazing to me to find the fine spirit of cooperation that exists in our league," said Nugent in telling of the York situation. "Every club responded to my appeal to help York, and despite the fact that they cannot play at home for nearly a month, the other teams have arranged to give the York fans their full quota of home dates by a voluntary re-arrangement of the schedule."

Nugent said the Wilmington Blue Rocks, pennant winners of 1946, and the Harrisburg Senators, winners of the play-off for the Governor's trophy, would both have strong teams on the field this year.

He added that the other six teams, Lancaster, York, Allentown, Hagerstown, Sunbury, and Trenton were all stronger than in 1946, and every club looked for the hustling young recruits to provide plenty of snappy ball during the entire campaign.

Today's opening card, all night games, finds York at Harrisburg, Trenton at Allentown, Hagerstown at Sunbury, and Wilmington at Lancaster.

KEARNS AFTER JOE WALCOTT

Camden, N. J., April 30 (P)—Jack Kearns, who guided Jack Dempsey to the heavyweight title in days gone by, was in Camden today to try to persuade Jersey Joe Walcott to go through with a heavyweight bout against his new protegee, Joey Maxim of Cleveland.

A Walcott-Maxim bout would be part of an elimination campaign to determine who would meet Joe Louis for the heavyweight title.

Crooner Frank Sinatra earlier reported that Walcott and Maxim had agreed to fight at Hollywood, Calif., June 16, but Walcott said he had signed no contract.

Louis Wants Playoff
The National Boxing association is on record favoring a Walcott-Louis fight for the championship without any eliminations.

However, Walcott, Maxim, light-heavyweight titlist Gus Lesnevich, and Melion Bettina are regarded by Louis as contenders and the champion is attempting to arrange a sort of playoff to name the challenger.

Walcott, an aging Camden negro, fought two bouts with Maxim, winning one and losing the other in an unpopular decision. His manager, Joe Webster, was reported not inclined to accept the Hollywood match despite frequent telephone calls from Sinatra.

The elderly Kearns, who is considered a pretty fair persuader, came armed with new offers from Sinatra, but financial terms were not disclosed.

BULLETS SLUG HARD TO NIP BUCKNELL 9-5

Ira Plank's Gettysburg College baseball team broke loose with a 15-hit barrage to defeat Bucknell Tuesday afternoon at Lewisburg 9-5.

Pacing the Bullet attack was Joe Cervino who poled homeruns in the third and eighth innings. In addition to a single, Russ Wileman smashed out another Bullet homerun in the first inning.

Extra base hits featured the Bullet's scoring in the first, third and eighth innings. In addition to Wileman's homerun in the initial inning, Ecker poled a triple in the same frame. Martz pounded out a triple preceding Cervino's homerun in the third while Tony Cervino connected for a three-base blow in the eighth following brother Joe's second round tripper.

The victory marked the fourth for the Bullet against two setbacks. Today the Plankmen oppose the strong Penn State nine at State College. Jack Bacon is scheduled to hurl for the locals.

Lewis Starts New Contract Battle Today

By HAROLD W. WARD
Washington, April 30 (P)—John L. Lewis began a new contract fight today with one third of the soft coal industry determined to block another nationwide wage agreement.

The powerful southern coal producers association served notice at government-sponsored preliminary talks yesterday that while it is eager to make a contract with Lewis separately, industry-wide bargaining in "impractical and undesirable" from the standpoint of its members.

The southerners enjoyed a 10 cent an hour wage differential until 1941 and, generally speaking, hope to make fewer concessions this year than some of the other operator groups have indicated they may be willing to grant Lewis.

Brings Recess
The mine leader's first move was to challenge, in effect, the tonnage behind each of the operators lined up against a national agreement.

He demanded to know how much bituminous coal was produced by each of the 32 producer groups represented at the preliminary session. Some of the negotiators represent sub-groups of the larger operator associations.

Lewis' demand led to a recess in the discussions until 3 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, today.

After that session, the United Mine Workers chief planned to meet with his 200-man policy committee, which he summoned formally for the first time since his present contract with the government was ratified last May—to end the 59-day spring strike.

ASKS DIVORCE
A divorce action has been started in the Adams court by Attorney Daniel E. Teeter for Kathryn Arlene (James) Groft, against Lawrence Robert Groft, McSherrystown. Description is charged.

A book published in 1600 is believed to contain the first published reference to platinum.

About 6,000 Americans are killed every year because of mishaps originating in home kitchens.

Cover Cracks With New Insulating Tile

Cracked and discolored ceilings can be quickly refinished with insulating board tile or pre-decorated building board. Before the advent of these attractive, low-cost materials the usual remedy was a complete replastering job. The units are applied directly over the old ceiling or to wood furring strips, which are nailed through the old plaster.

Decorating costs are saved when insulating board tile is used, and the many colors available make innumerable blend or contrast effects possible.

Biglerville and Boiling Springs high schools maintained their unbeaten records in the Adams County Scholastic Baseball league by snaring victories Tuesday afternoon. New Oxford and Fairfield also gained triumphs.

Ed Weigle hurled Biglerville to a 3-1 victory over York Springs on the latter's diamond, permitting but four hits. A three-run uprising in the sixth inning gave the Cannons victory.

A nine-run attack in the seventh inning enabled Boiling Springs to crush Littlestown 13-5 on the Littlestown field.

Despite being outth 8-3, New Oxford pushed over a run in the last half of the seventh to defeat Argndtsville 4-3 at New Oxford. The winning run came on a walk to E. Mechtly, an infield out and an advance to third base on a passed ball. Mechtly was trapped off third base but raced home on a wild throw to the plate.

Fairfield high rallied four runs in the last of the third inning to nose out East Berlin 7-6 at Fairfield. R. Weikert started for Fairfield but gave way to J. Weikert in the fourth. After walking the first three batsmen the latter gave way to Darrel Wolf who got the next batter on a fly and fanned two batsmen to smother the rally.

HERMAN GIVES HIS IDEAS FOR GOOD MANAGER

Philadelphia, April 30 (P)—Billy Herman has his own code for managerial success—and apparently it's paying off for the new pilot of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Billy brought his power-laden Bucs to Philadelphia yesterday and HR (Home Run) Sr., Mr. Hank Greenberg, and HR Jr., Mr. Ralph Kiner helped themselves to four-basers to give the Pirates a 6-2 decision over the Phillies.

At this point of the season, the Pirates—a seventh-place club a year ago—are in third, two games out of first place.

And what does it take to be

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
J. T. Pitzer Is Married: J. T. Pitzer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Pitzer, Steinwehr avenue, and Miss Hilda Maria Angell, of Hanover, were married Thursday at the home of the bride by the Rev. Dr. W. I. Redway. After a honeymoon in Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Pitzer will reside in Gettysburg. Mr. Pitzer is junior member of the partnership of Dubbs and Pitzer, tailors, Center Square.

Pershing Pleas for Large Army: (By Associated Press). Washington, April 25.—The United States "with adequate military preparation and under strong leadership could have prevented the occurrence of the World War." General John J. Pershing declared in testifying before the Senate Military committee in behalf of the War department plea for an increase in the military establishment over that proposed by the House.

Restaurant Changes Hands: C. S. Rogers, of Chambersburg, has purchased the Thompson restaurant located in the City Hotel building, Chambersburg street. The business was purchased by G. R. Thompson several months ago and has since been conducted by his son, Earl Thompson.

Lady Awarded Legion Auto: The Legion Dance, which was held in Xavier Hall Monday evening proved a great success and was so largely attended that there was scarcely room on the floor for the dancers. The Studebaker touring car was awarded to Miss Eva Stock, of Baltimore street, who held the lucky ticket, number 2173.

Over $500 was cleared for the Legion Post which will be used to diminish the debt on the home recently purchased.

Plan for Resort in Mountains: A golf course at Graeffenburg Inn along the Lincoln highway, has been assured for next summer. Work on the construction of the course will be started early this summer and completed in time for seeding of the greens in the fall, which will make it available for use early in the following season. Scottie Robson, of Olean, N. Y., has been here for several days making a survey of the area and plotting the preliminary sketches for Robert C. Miller, who has leased the Inn and a large tract of land from the State of Pennsylvania.

It is Mr. Miller's intention to construct a nine-hole course, using most of the 76-acre tract which lays on the south side of the highway and directly opposite the Inn.

It is also Mr. Miller's intention to restore the old dam near the Inn and construct a modern bathing pool with sand beach. It is estimated that the pool will cover an area of two acres and have a maximum depth of seven feet.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHAT IS SUCCESS?

It will probably not be disputed that the two most sought objectives in life are to be a Success and to be Happy. Let us take the first one—Success. What is Success, anyway? Is it merely to accumulate money and to be known as rich? Well, crooks, bootleggers, and black market operators make big money and get very rich. Hardly could they classify as Successes as the honest world stresses the word.

Then, again, there are endless numbers of men who have accumulated great wealth, and honestly, too, but who have neglected every worthwhile pursuit, save the accumulation of money, and yet feel that they have by-passed Success! Many of those men have had their wealth suddenly swept from them, then only to realize that in simple living, and in the association of genuine friends, is real Success centered, plus that larger element of Happiness.

More money, beyond the healthy comforts, and the security that it offers, actually buys little that returns genuine Happiness. It is true that great wealth has been given over to notable objectives that have enriched many, and this is highly commendable, but all too often this wealth is used to illustrate personal power, and to create envy and jealousy. It is not always the criterion of character, nor is it significant of Happiness.

There are many more happy poor than happy rich. You may recall the story in the Bible of the rich young ruler, who became so interested and attracted to the work and ministry of Jesus that he went to call upon Him and to talk things over—for apparently there was something vital that was lacking in his Success—but the understanding Jesus told him to go and sell everything and to come and follow Him. And you also will recall that it is said, he went away sorrowful!

He is the greatest Success who gives most of himself to make others happy! He alone assures himself of Happiness that is beyond all material wealth. The happiest man whom I have ever known was one who never seemed to keep a dollar long in his pocket. No sooner did he get it than he spent it, in some way to give Happiness to others. His name was Goodman—and he was rightly named! He was the most beloved man that I have ever known—a great Success!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Weather"

HOW TO PLEASE 'EM

The women long for pretty things,
For bracelets, necklaces and rings
And bonnets new.
But men their happiest smiles will wear
If they can get a beefsteak rare
Or Irish stew.

The women find their happiness
In various articles of dress
From stylish shops.
But men are different, as a group.
Best pleased are they with onion soup
Or thick lamb chops.

Oh, men, lest love may fade away,
Supply your wives with trinkets gay,
And fashion's suits.
Oh, women, if their love you'd hold,
Remember what your mothers told:
"Just feed the brutes."

soon after his arrival, he visited the battlefield west of town and the National cemetery. The examination of the field was completed the next morning and Thursday evening an impromptu entertainment was given in his honor at the Franklin House by the Commissioners of the National Cemetery association. The following evening the party started on their return trip to Washington.

In speaking of his refusal to make a speech, the Star and Sentinel of June 26, 1867, says "some regret was felt at his failure to speak but it is known that the nearest he ever got to making a speech was on a recent visit to Washington, Pa., when he told the impatient and persistent crowd "that they would get wet now if they did not go home out of the rain." General Grant is a man of deeds rather than words and the American people must become accustomed and reconciled to this peculiarity.

CONGRESS AT WORK PUZZLE TO VISITORS

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, April 30 (AP)—Thousands come here to see Congress at work.

They see only a part of it. It doesn't look like much work to them. They feel cheated right away.

They wander into the Senate galleries, take a seat, and look down contentedly upon the senators at work.

There are 96 senators but the visitor looks down at perhaps only five or six, one talking and the others listening or reading.

Pretty often, except at voting time, there are only that many on the floor at one time.

The other senators stroll in and stroll out. The visitors, not having seen them before, can't tell whether they're senators or clerks.

Duck In, Duck Out

A senator flings open a swinging door in the back, ducks in, listens to the speech for a second, ducks right back out.

(He's either not interested in the subject or he's heard this same speech or something like it before).

Or a senator pops through the swinging doors, catches an earful, strides across the floor, disappears through other swinging doors.

This steady activity—ducking in, bobbing out, marching across the floor, disappearing—goes on daily.

So the visitor, a little bewildered, withdraws quietly and, patiently plodding through the capitol halls, lands in the House gallery.

This looks better to him. There are more men on the House floor. (There are 435 House members, so more of them are bound to be on the floor at any one time than you'll find in the Senate).

The visitor cocks an ear to hear what that congressman with the waving arms is yelling at other congressmen.

Visitor Feels Cheated

Some of them may be reading newspapers. Some will be sitting with dead-pan faces. Some may be listening sharply.

But again the visitor feels cheated. The congressman making the speech may be talking about something as simple as potatoes.

One after another, talking maybe only two minutes each, half a dozen other congressmen jump up, talk, wave their arms, sit down.

Once more the visitor wanders away, thinking maybe: So this is Congress.

What he doesn't know is that most of the senators and representatives are busy elsewhere, in committees or in their offices.

The visitor might get a better idea of Congress at work if he took the trouble to visit the committee meetings and listen in there.

But whole swarms of visitors, shepherded by capitol guides, flood into the galleries every day, sit, listen, and leave, undoubtedly puzzled.

TRY 'POTTSTOWN PLAN' ON PRICES

Pottstown, Pa., April 30 (AP)—The Pottstown price-slashing plan gets a 12-hour test in this eastern Pennsylvania city today.

Nathan P. Hoffman, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce's mercantile bureau declared that Pottstown storekeepers are "dead opposed" to the so-called Newburyport plan "of an across-the-board reduction for a limited period of time."

The chamber said in a statement "We are not convinced that 10 per cent reduction is enough" and called for 20 to 50 per cent cuts in prices. Hoffman said "Every store is cooperating in our profit-sharing day project."

The one-day program is being tried out, said Hoffman. "In an all-out effort to prove that lower prices will encourage consumer spending and keep the economic machinery of the country rolling."

"Reductions will be made on a multitude of items," he declared, "with prices to be cut as high as 50 per cent in some instances. Some stores are cutting everything a flat 10 per cent."

Stores in this city of 20,000 will be opened at 9:30 a. m. (Eastern Daylight Time) and close at 9:30 p. m., three and one-half hours later than usual.

The Newburyport plan was instigated in the Massachusetts city where for a two-week period, merchants are cutting prices 10 per cent in support of President Truman's plea for price reduction.

Action On Nurses' Bill Is Delayed

Harrisburg, April 30 (AP)—Action on legislation to permit voluntary registration of practical nurses in Pennsylvania will be deferred "until I can round up enough votes to have it passed," Rep. Jeanette M. Dye (R-Mercer) said today.

The Republican House caucus failed to take action yesterday on the Dye bill in the face of stiff criticism. If unable to raise enough votes for passage, Mrs. Dye said she would have the measure returned to a committee pigeon-hole.

Backed by the Pennsylvania State Nurses association, the legislation would allow practical nurses with grade school education and a year's practical experience to apply for licenses.

"There is nothing compulsory about it," Mrs. Dye told a reporter. "It merely permits nurse's aides, who can qualify, to take examinations and be known as licensed practical nurses. It won't affect anyone who doesn't want to be registered."

FED DOGS BUT NOT CHILDREN

Charleroi, Pa., April 30 (AP)—A hearing was docketed today for an Elco Steelworker who Police Chief Robert Fowler said let his six children go hungry for a week although he returned home to feed his four dogs.

Justice of the Peace Raymond J. Curley ordered the steelworker, Charles Joseph Gales, 33, and his wife, Catherine, 34, both held after an arraignment last night. Curley said the hearing charges are abandonment and cruelty to minors.

Fowler claimed the couple abandoned the youngsters, ranging in age from one to twelve, a week ago. Since then, the chief related, they apparently had little or no food.

Alice, age one, and James, 3, were hospitalized. Fowler reported them in serious condition from malnutrition. The four older children were sent to a children's home and neighbors.

Fowler said Mrs. Gales claimed she left home because she was "afraid" of her husband as a result of frequent beatings.

100 FEET FROM HOME...

Billy is happily skating... he bends down to tighten his skate straps... playmates scream... brakes screech... the car stops, but not in time. Billy is dead—just 100 feet from home.

Why must 191 Billies—15 years of age and under—needlessly die every year? And 583 older pedestrians are killed every year in traffic accidents—bringing the gory total to 774 lives snuffed out on Pennsylvania's streets and highways. Why? Because we forget the rules of common courtesy and consideration. We forget to act "safely."

We are too apt to blame the driver of the car every time a pedestrian fatality occurs. Actually—the pedestrian often is as much at fault as the driver.

Parents should caution children about playing in the

TORNADO HITS THREE STATES, 20 LEFT DEAD

Worth, Mo., April 30 (AP)—Tornado winds whipped through small towns in Arkansas, Missouri and Iowa leaving at least 20 dead today, injuring more than 50 and causing thousands of dollars in property damage.

Hardest hit was this northwest Missouri town with a population of 233. Thirteen persons were killed and approximately 45 injured. Only half a dozen buildings in the town were left standing.

At least seven persons were killed in Arkansas where vicious winds last night lashed the small community of Bright Water and swept close to Garfield, not far from the Missouri line.

A tornado also struck Clio, a town of about 200 population, in southwestern Iowa, causing extensive property damage. No loss of life was reported, however.

Trees Clipped Off

The tornado that hit Worth swept through the center of the town wiping out the entire business district. Two of the town's three churches and its brick schoolhouse were among the buildings demolished. Practically every tree in town was clipped off.

The community was in darkness until late last night when a mobile generator arrived from a neighboring town. Both the Salvation Army and the Red Cross set up stations and homeless were being cared for in the few remaining residences still standing and in nearby towns.

Aid was rushed to the stricken areas from surrounding towns and the Rogers, Ark., unit of the National Guard was sent to Bright Water to help search the ruins and guard against possible looting. Bright Water has a population of 100.

In Iowa, Pahl Thompson, Northwestern Bell Telephone manager at Corydon, Ia., reported considerable damage at Clio, a town of about 200.

PALESTINE IS A CENTER FOR POWER POLITICS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

As was anticipated, the Palestine problem is producing variegated fireworks right at the start of its consideration by a United Nations which isn't too happy in the knowledge that it must render a judgment of Solomon if the issue is to be settled.

There was one heavy outburst yesterday when India challenged Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, to give assurances that England would abide by recommendations of the Palestine session of the U. N. assembly. Sir Alexander retorted that Britain couldn't be expected to "expend blood and treasure single-handed" to carry out recommendations of the U. N. on the future of Palestine.

That could be the acme of diplomacy because, while it seems self-explanatory, it actually doesn't say "no" and it doesn't say "yes." One suspects that Sir Alexander was being non-committal in order to leave the way open for Britain's formal answer at a later date. However, that may be, the incident does illustrate the delicacy of the situation.

Seeks Way To Solution

The U. N. is faced with what many pessimists would call an "impossible" task. It involves not only establishing a national home for Jews but safeguarding the interests of the big Arab population which out-numbers the Jews about two to one — the total population of the country being estimated at close to 1,800,000. And there are other items — of which more anon.

Still, it strikes me that the problem would be susceptible of solution if it could be confined to the interests of the inhabitants. I observed during visits to the Holy Land that the rank and file of Jews and Arabs get along well together if left alone, despite clashes among the upper registers of the two races. The current conflict in Palestine isn't between Jews and Arabs, but between some Jews and the British.

So it's our guess that if the U. N. finds an answer to the puzzle it will be based on the fundamental fact that the Jews and Arabs can live together amicably under normal conditions.

Unfortunately that isn't the whole story. If it were, the solution would be comparatively simple. The greatest obstacle lies in the fact that Palestine is so strategically located that its control is of vast interest to the major powers — militarily, politically and economically.

Veto Talk Heard On Portal Pay Bill

Washington, April 30 (AP) — Talk of a presidential veto circulated in Congress today before either House or Senate took up hard-fought compromise legislation to outlaw most portal pay claims.

Senator McGrath (D-R.I.) told a reporter the compromise "fails to meet the objections of Secretary of Labor Schwelmbach, who said he would recommend a veto of both Senate and House bills."

McGrath, who sat in the month-long Senate-House conference dispute over the complicated legislation, declined to sign the final agreement yesterday.

He said his provisions would create a "field day of litigation which will be expensive and annoying to employees, employers and the government."

FUGITIVE WINS AS GOOD CITIZEN

Pittsburgh, April 30 (AP) — A middle-aged carpenter, who has been a fugitive from justice for more than half his life, has won the right to legal freedom in Pennsylvania.

Judge Thomas A. Marshall yesterday permitted William H. Dern, Jr., 46, to go free under a writ of habeas corpus because, the Judge said, he has been a "good citizen of Pennsylvania during the past 22 years."

The graying, nervous man whom the neighbors described as "reliable and honest," appeared in court to fight extradition proceedings brought by Ohio authorities for an offense he committed 25 years ago.

At that time he was convicted of grand larceny—theft of scrap brass from a building he was helping to raise. Sentenced to one to seven years in prison, Dern escaped in 1922 and moved to Brackenridge, Pa., where he assumed a new name and married.

Since then, police said, he has lived an exemplary life and has worked as a carpenter on many building projects in the Pittsburgh district. A fellow worker who knew of his past, turned him in to law officials and Dern was arrested and held for extradition to Ohio.

Judge Marshall, in freeing Dern, said he had proved himself a "good citizen of the state" and was entitled to a "break."

Asks Safeguard For Freedom Of Press

Washington, April 30 (AP) — George C. Blohm of Chicago, representing approximately 800 newspapers, asked Congress today to safeguard freedom of the press by "making it clear that newsgathering agencies may choose their own membership without violating the anti-trust laws."

The newspapers Blohm represents have organized into the "news publishers association to amend the anti-trust laws."

The association is supporting legislation introduced by Rep. Mason (R-Ill.) to clarify the status of news gathering agencies as a result of the 1945 Supreme Court decision in the justice department's anti-trust suit against the Associated Press.

The court directed the AP to amend its by-laws which permitted members to consider the competitive effect of an application for membership.

today, voting to cut the funds from $350,000,000 to $200,000,000.

The action came on a rollcall vote of 225 to 165, confirming a slash tentatively ordered yesterday during sharp criticism of sending American aid to countries termed under the "domination" of Russia.

Washington, April 30 (AP) — An official of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce suggested today that President Truman's plea for lower prices may produce joblessness and recession instead of preventing them.

William S. Street, chairman of the Chamber's economic policy committee, cautioned business to be watchful lest the White House call "result in wholesale cancellations of commitments both by business and the consumer."

RENT CONTROL UP

Washington, April 30 (AP) — Legislation continuing rent controls at least to December 31 came up in the House today with GOP leaders predicting overwhelming approval. However, a sharp debate shaped up on other provisions of the measure which would abolish government contracts over building materials and construction set up last year in the Veterans Housing Act.

Timely And Modern Suggestions Presented By Builders And Contractors

ATTRACTIVE OAK FLOORING ADDS TO HOME DIGNITY

Few things detract more from the appearance of a home than shabby floors. Conversely, few items do more to add charm and dignity than attractive floors of oak or other hardwoods.

They require only a few strategically placed rugs to lend that air of elegance which has helped make them the universal standard for dwellings. The economy of this feature, incidentally, is something the budget minded home planner takes into consideration.

Even though the center area be covered, as is usually the case, a well polished, gleaming oak floor serves as a frame enclosing the furnishings and displaying them to the best advantage.

Regular Care Helps
Neatness and cleanliness of a home bespeak the character of the homeowner, and that applies to floor maintenance as well as to other parts of the house. Those fortunate enough to have good hardwood floors can keep them in tip top shape with relatively little effort, considering the big dividends received in satisfaction and home beautification. Regular care makes the task easier, but even long neglected floors can be returned to their original luster.

Neglected floors, especially if they have been discolored, may require removal of old finish by sanding or scraping. Applications of new finish will then find them like new. Among the recently developed finishes which have proven highly efficient are floor seals which penetrate the wood, becoming part of it rather than forming a separate coat on the surface. Stains which bring out the full natural beauty of the wood also are available in various shades.

Specialists in floor maintenance recommend daily sweeping with an untreated dust mop and running a weighted floor brush or electric polisher over the floors occasionally. Cleaning and waxing several times a year then will keep the floors glistening. Many experts advise the use of special liquid floor cleaners which contain a wax base. Soap and water, they point out, may harm the finish.

Balsa trees grow as much as 12 feet the first year and reach best marketable size at 50 or 60 feet in seven years.

New Flushwall Radio Unit Saves Space

A flushwall radio unit has been specially designed for installation in bathrooms, kitchens, playrooms, and other limited-space rooms. Hinge arrangement makes it simple to connect wires when making original installation.

After wall board has been placed in new construction and plastering finished, radio is put in place by slotted hinges, and panel is attached by screws. No extra wiring or heavy cable necessary.

Ask Aid For Europe's Weakened Churches

Harrisburg, April 30 (AP)—Immediate steps toward revitalizing Europe's "war-weakened" churches, were urged at the closing session of the Pennsylvania council of churches' annual meeting.

The Rt. Rev. James Hutchison Cockburn, of Scotland, told the delegates last night that "Christian civilization is at stake, not merely in Europe but also in Britain and in the United States."

"The picture is a very grim one for Europe today and the solution of its problems is neither going to be easy or short," Rev. Cockburn declared. He urged nations to help advance church expansion while rendering economic aid to ravaged countries.

Many of the more than 500 ministers and laymen who attended the two-day convention remained today to participate in the conference on world order meeting here today to discuss current religious problems.

SUBFLOORS ARE VITAL FACTOR

Building experts say that although the great structural strength of oak and other hardwoods makes it possible to omit subfloors when those woods are used for finish flooring, it usually is poor economy to do so.

A subfloor, they point out, performs several important functions. Besides serving to keep the house warmer and drier in winter, it adds bracing strength to the building, since it is laid diagonally. Properly installed with plenty of nails, it becomes a solid base for the finish floor and helps prevent floor squeaks. Builders declare, incidentally, that such squeaks usually are the result of insufficient nailing of the subfloor, rather than a deficiency in the finish floor.

Another purpose served by a subfloor is that of providing workmen a safe working surface during erection of the building. This permits them to defer laying the finish floor until all plastering and other finishing have been completed and the building interior has been allowed to reach normal temperature and humidity. Flooring experts say this is highly important because it guards against shrinkage of the finish flooring by insuring proper relationship of moisture content between the wood and the building interior.

COLOR IMPROVES KITCHEN SETUP

At the present day there is a decided trend to kitchens that are completely white. This is all well and good, but kitchens are becoming more interesting than ever before.

One popular kitchen whose cupboards are handsomely painted with ivy decals, with curtains to match is certainly restful to the eye. This same kitchen, since it is very large, has kitchen cabinets of white and backing the dining room wall kitchen cabinets are of natural polished wood.

Of course, color is very often brought into the walls, and usually always in the flooring. This very same kitchen has a dull red flooring, with all table tops finished in a dull red material with a tweed-effect pattern. Walls are of very light green.

One decorator suggests robin's egg blue, yellow or deep brown for try-outs in kitchens. First, however, determine how well lighted your kitchen is, and select your colors with a view to permanent satisfaction.

An effective way to bring color to your white cabinets is to use modern hardware, door latches and hinges with a spot of color. They're available in a great variety of colors and styles, and they make a white kitchen sparkle.

Building Ideas For Home Owners Of This Community

SIMPLICITY CAN PAY DIVIDENDS IN HOME DESIGN

Definite good taste is difficult. People's tastes vary in food, clothing, houses, and innumerable items in everyday life.

What is good taste in house design is just as hard to define, builders believe. One general rule is that a union between simplicity and functionalism will bring the best results.

In planning a house it is usually thought best to have the arrangement between taste and functionalism properly related.

Roof Defined
Webster defines a roof as simply "the cover to a building." The definition in house designing embraces much more. For example, the longer the roof line the more restful and pleasing the effect. Badly proportioned attic and dormer windows, irregularities, sharp angles, and a variation of roof color are factors which tend to injure the appearance of roofs.

The primary function of the wall is to keep out the weather, but most builders believe that the simpler the design of the wall the better it looks. Walls should not be extreme in their simplicity, but, on the other hand, should not be ornate.

Windows and doors are purely functional, but they should fit the general design of the house and at the same time be in proportion to each other.

Chimneys Need Symmetry
Frequently oversized or undersized, conspicuous chimneys ruin an otherwise good architectural appearance. Chimneys should be grouped together as far as possible for economy and efficiency as well as appearance.

The use of color often reflects good or bad taste. Factors influencing color selection include the immediate surroundings, the landscape and neighboring houses.

The design of the garage to be in good taste should be purely functional in nature without "false-front decorations" but in character with the house.

PANELLED DOOR BEST FOR HOME HEATING ADVICE

Panelled interior doors—with their delicate shadow lines and light-reflecting surfaces—are preferred in many American homes because of their ability to harmonize with room furnishings.

This fact is revealed by a recent Nation-wide survey which shows that of those who preferred the parallel type of interior door, more than 68 per cent based their preference on decorative harmony and architectural design.

According to the survey, the popularity of panelled doors is especially strong in the South and East, where the charm of traditional architecture is preserved in many of the finest and most modern homes. However, more than 84 per cent of respondents from all over the country now have panelled doors.

Modern developments in panelled door manufacture make it possible to obtain a fine variety of styles at moderate cost. One such style—a six-panel door—is based on famous Jeffersonian architecture and is designed to add a "grace note" to homes in which it is used. Other panel designs include the classic eight-panel door, four-panel, two-panel and single panel styles. Single panel doors fit well into any setting, especially modern and contemporary decorative schemes.

BOOKLETS OFFER HEATING ADVICE

With elimination of the Government's building control program and the production strides of the plumbing and heating industries, more prospective builders are getting closer to their goal of a new post-war home.

To aid consumers home planners, and contractors, two booklets, "Choosing a Heating Plant Wisely" and "What You Should Know About Plumbing," have been published by the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau, 35 East Wacker drive, Chicago 1, Ill.

Persons interested in receiving copies of the booklets should address inquiries to the bureau enclosing five cents in stamps, or coin for each booklet.

The heating booklet describes the various heating plants available, giving information vital to the selection of each type, requirements for healthful and efficient home heating and helpful background information on layout and installation. "What You Should Know About Plumbing" contains plans for bathrooms, kitchens, utility rooms as

Pershing Pleas for Large Army: (By Associated Press). Washington, April 25.—The United States "with adequate military preparation and under strong leadership could have prevented the occurrence of the World War," General John J. Lady Awarded Legion Auto: The Legion Dance, which was held in Xavier Hall Monday evening proved a great success and was so largely attended that there was scarcely room on the floor for the dancers. The Studebaker touring car was awarded to Miss Eva Stock, of Baltimore street, who held the lucky ticket, number 2173.

Over $500 was cleared for the Legion Post which will be used to diminish the debt on the home recently purchased.

Plan for Resort in Mountains: A golf course at Graeffenburg Inn along the Lincoln highway, has been assured for next summer. Work on the construction of the course will be started early this summer and completed in time for seeding of the greens in the fall, which will make it available for use early in the following season. Scottie Robson, of Olean, N. Y., has been here for several days making a survey of the area and plotting the preliminary sketches for Robert C. Miller, who has leased the Inn and a large tract of land from the State of Pennsylvania.

It is Mr. Miller's intention to construct a nine-hole course, using most of the 76-acre tract which lays on the south side of the highway and directly opposite the Inn.

It is also Mr. Miller's intention to restore the old dam near the Inn and construct a modern bathing pool with sand beach. It is estimated that the pool will cover an area of two acres and have a maximum depth of seven feet.

Grant Visited the Battlefield: Thursday was observed throughout this country as the centenary of the birth of General U. S. Grant, who was born in 1822 and died in 1885. The massive Grant memorial was dedicated at Washington while a suitable celebration of the day was staged at Point Pleasant, Ohio, the birthplace of the former President. A feature of the latter event was an address by President Harding.

Records show that General Grant made but one visit to Gettysburg. He came here on June 19, 1867, arriving on a special train from Baltimore at 4 p. m. He was met at the station by a large crowd of people and the town was in holiday attire. The general was accompanied here by Governor Geary, then chief executive of the State of Pennsylvania. Grant was loudly cheered as he alighted from the train and made his way to the home of David Wills, Esq., who then resided on Center Square. General Grant and his aid, General Porter, were entertained at the Wills home. The crowd gathered before the house and demanded a speech from the general, but he refused.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHAT IS SUCCESS?

It will probably not be disputed that the two most sought objectives in life are to be a Success and to be Happy. Let us take the first one—Success. What is Success, anyway? Is it merely to accumulate money and to be known as rich? Well, crooks, bootleggers, and black market operators make big money and get very rich. Hardly could they classify as Successes as the honest world stresses the word.

Then, again, there are endless numbers of men who have accumulated great wealth, and honestly, too, but who have neglected every worthwhile pursuit, save the accumulation of money, and yet feel that they have by-passed Success! Many of those men have had their wealth suddenly swept from them, then only to realize that in simple living, and in the association of genuine friends, is real Success centered, plus that larger element of Happiness.

More money, beyond the healthy comforts, and the security that it offers, actually buys little that returns genuine Happiness. It is true that great wealth has been given over to notable objectives that have enriched many, and this is highly commendable, but all too often this wealth is used to illustrate personal power, and to create envy and jealousy. It is not always the criterion of character, nor is it significant of Happiness.

There are many more happy poor than happy rich. You may recall the story in the Bible of the rich young ruler, who became so interested and attracted to the work and ministry of Jesus that he went to call upon Him and to talk things over—for apparently there was something vital that was lacking in his Success—but the understanding Jesus told him to go and sell everything and to come and follow Him. And you also will recall that it is said, he went away sorrowful!

He is the greatest Success who gives most of himself to make others Happy! He alone assures himself of Happiness that is beyond all material wealth. The happiest man whom I have ever known was one who never seemed to keep a dollar long in his pocket. No sooner did he get it than he spent it, in some way—to give Happiness—to others. His name was Goodman—and he was rightly named! He was the most beloved man that I have ever known—a great Success!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "The Weather"

HOW TO PLEASE 'EM
The women long for pretty things,
For bracelets, necklaces and rings
And bonnets new.
But men their happiest smiles will wear

If they can get a beefsteak rare
Or Irish stew.

The women find their happiness
In various articles of dress
From stylish shops.

But men are different, as a group.
Best pleased are they with onion soup

Or thick lamb chops.

Oh, men, lest love may fade away,
Supply your wives with trinkets gay,
And fashion's suits.

Oh, women, if their love you'd hold,
Remember what your mothers told:
"Just feed the brutes."

soon after his arrival, he visited the battlefield west of town and the National cemetery. The examination of the field was completed the next morning and Thursday evening an impromptu entertainment was given in his honor at the Franklin House by the Commissioners of the National Cemetery association. The following evening the party started on their return trip to Washington.

In speaking of his refusal to make a speech, the Star and Sentinel of June 26, 1867, says "some regret was felt at his failure to speak but it is known that the nearest he ever got to making a speech was on a recent visit to Washington, Pa., when he told the impatient and persistent crowd 'that they would get wet now if they did not go home out of the rain.'" General Grant is a man of deeds rather than words and the American people must become accustomed and reconciled to this peculiarity.

The only local celebration of the centenary was held on Thursday evening when the Sons of Veterans camp entertained the members of the Corporal Skelly Post, GAR, in the Post Hall.

County Bankers Are Organized: An Adams County Bankers' association was formed Thursday evening, when officers and directors of the institution in this county met at the Hotel Gettysburg. Following a banquet at which 44 bankers representing 14 of the 16 institutions in the county were present, an address was made by C. F. Zimmerman, sec-

CONGRESS AT WORK PUZZLE TO VISITORS

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, April 30 (AP)—Thousands come here to see Congress at work.

They see only a part of it. It doesn't look like much work to them. They feel cheated right away.

They wander into the Senate gallery, take a seat, and look down contentedly upon the senators at work.

There are 96 senators but the visitor looks down at perhaps only five or six, one talking and the others listening or reading.

Pretty often, except at voting time, there are only that many on the floor at one time.

The other senators stroll in and stroll out. The visitors, not having seen them before, can't tell whether they're senators or clerks.

Duck In, Duck Out
A senator flings open a swinging door in the back, ducks in, listens to the speech for a second, ducks right back out.

(He's either not interested in the subject or he's heard this same speech or something like it before.)

Or a senator pops through the swinging doors, catches an earful, strides across the floor, disappears through other swinging doors.

This steady activity—ducking in, bobbing out, marching across the floor, disappearing—goes on daily.

So the visitor, a little bewildered, withdraws quietly and, patiently plodding through the capitol halls, lands in the House gallery.

This looks better to him there are more men on the House floor. (There are 435 House members, so more of them are bound to be on the floor at any one time than you'll find in the Senate.)

The visitor cocks an ear to hear what that congressman with the waving arms is yelling at other congressmen.

Visitor Feels Cheated
Some of them may be reading newspapers. Some will be sitting with dead-pane faces. Some may be listening sharply.

But again the visitor feels cheated. The congressman making the speech may be talking about something as simple as potatoes.

One after another, talking maybe only two minutes each, half a dozen other congressmen jump up, talk, wave their arms, sit down.

Once more the visitor wanders away, thinking maybe: So this is Congress.

What he doesn't know is that most of the senators and representatives are busy elsewhere, in committees or in their offices.

The visitor might get a better idea of Congress at work if he took the trouble to visit the committee meetings and listen in there.

But whole swarms of visitors, shepherded by capitol guides, flood into the galleries every day, sit, listen, and leave, undoubtedly puzzled.

TRY 'POTTSTOWN PLAN' ON PRICES

Pottstown, Pa., April 30 (AP)—The Pottstown price-slashing plan gets a 12-hour test in this eastern Pennsylvania city today.

Nathan P. Hoffman, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce's mercantile bureau declared that Pottstown storekeepers are "dead opposed" to the so-called Newburyport plan "of an across-the-board reduction for a limited period of time."

The chamber said in a statement "We are not convinced that 10 per cent reduction is enough" and called for 20 to 50 per cent cuts in prices. Hoffman said "Every store is cooperating in our profit-sharing day project."

The one-day program is being tried out, said Hoffman "In an all-out effort to prove that lower prices will encourage consumer spending and keep the economic machinery of the country rolling."

"Reductions will be made on a multitude of items," he declared, "with prices to be cut as high as 50 per cent in some instances. Some stores are cutting everything a flat 10 per cent."

Stores in this city of 20,000 will be opened at 9:30 a. m. (Eastern Daylight Time) and close at 9:30 p. m., three and one-half hours later than usual.

The Newburyport plan was instituted in the Massachusetts city where for a two-week period, merchants are cutting prices 10 per cent in support of President Truman's plea for price reduction.

Action On Nurses' Bill Is Delayed

Harrisburg, April 30 (AP)—Action on legislation to permit voluntary registration of practical nurses in Pennsylvania will be deferred "until I can round up enough votes to have it passed," Rep. Jeanette M. Dye (R-Mercer) said today.

The Republican House caucus failed to take action yesterday on the Dye bill in the face of stiff criticism. If unable to raise enough votes for passage, Mrs. Dye said she would have the measure returned to a committee pigeon-hole.

Backed by the Pennsylvania State Nurses association, the legislation would allow practical nurses with grade school education and a year's practical experience to apply for licenses.

"There is nothing compulsory about it," Mrs. Dye told a reporter. "It merely permits nurse's aides, who can qualify, to take examinations and be known as licensed practical nurses. It won't affect anyone who doesn't want to be registered."

Okinawa Veteran
Suicides In Jail

Pittsburgh, April 30 (AP)—Unable to find a job, John H. Hess, 25, of Springdale, a Navy six-year veteran, hanged himself in North Side police station yesterday. Coroner William McClelland reported.

Turnkey Peter McCullough said that only a half hour before Hess walked into the police station and asked permission to "get a little sleep."

Hess served through the Okinawa and other Pacific campaigns. Once his ship was blown apart but he escaped injury.

A brick garage has been erected on the land at the south end of town, recently purchased by Charles B. Wallace. The new home of the Wallaces is being erected on this property.

Mr. and Mrs. David S. Kime have received word their son, David S. Kime, Jr., in military service in Germany, and his bride, the former Miss Grace L. Brennenman, have gone to housekeeping in a German city. The bride left here in December to join her husband whom she married last August. Mrs. Kime, Sr. is improved after an extended period of ill health.

Priests Will Honor Mother's Anniversary

Erie, Pa., April 30 (AP)—Four priests, sons of Mrs. Joseph Kuhn, planned a special mass at St. Patrick's church today, honoring their mother's 50th wedding anniversary. The sons are the Rev. Stephen Kuhn, St. Mary's church, Buffalo, N. Y.; the Rev. Walter Kuhn, Our Lady of Victory church, Southern Pines, S. C.; the Rev. Gerard Kuhn, St. Joseph's church, Rochester, N. Y., and the Rev. Kenneth Kuhn, Church of the Purification, Mayaguez, Puerto Rico.

SO BE IT

Chicago (AP)—The Fairteen club, an organization of high school girls, has issued this "directive" for the benefit of all present and future baby sitters among its members:

DO—Homework, read a book, check the baby every half hour, knit or sew.

DON'T—Dress sloppily, turn radio on-loud, invite boy-friend in to jitterbug, raid ice box or make a lot of phone calls, hold the baby over the gas stove to dry its diapers.

There was veins of coal under about two-thirds of Illinois.

FED DOGS BUT NOT CHILDREN

Charleroi, Pa., April 30 (AP)—A hearing was docketed today for an Elco Steelworker who Police Chief Robert Fowler said let his six children go hungry for a week although he returned home to feed his four dogs.

Justice of the Peace Raymond J. Curley ordered the steelworker, Charles Joseph Gales, 33, and his wife, Catherine, 34, both held after an arraignment last night. Curley said the hearing charges are abandonment and cruelty to minors.

Fowler claimed the couple abandoned the youngsters, ranging in age from one to twelve, a week ago. Since then, the chief related, they apparently had little or no food.

Also, age one and James, 3, were hospitalized. Fowler reported them in serious condition from malnutrition. The four older children were sent to a children's home and neighbors.

Fowler said Mrs. Gales claimed she left home because she was "afraid" of her husband as a result of frequent beatings.

100 FEET FROM HOME...

Billy is happily skating... he bends down to tighten his skate straps... playmates scream... brakes screech... the car stops, but not in time. Billy is dead—just 100 feet from home.

Why must 191, Billies—15 years of age and under—needlessly die every year? And 583 older pedestrians are killed every year in traffic accidents—bringing the gory total to 774 lives snuffed out on Pennsylvania's streets and highways. Why? Because we forget the rules of common courtesy and consideration. We forget to act "safely."

We are too apt to blame the driver of the car every time a pedestrian fatality occurs. Actually—the pedestrian often is as much at fault as the driver.

Parents should caution children about playing in the

TORNADO HITS THREE STATES, 20 LEFT DEAD

Worth, Mo., April 30 (AP)—Tornado winds whipped through small towns in Arkansas, Missouri and Iowa leaving at least 20 dead today, injuring more than 50 and causing thousands of dollars in property damage.

Hardest hit was this northwest Missouri town with a population of 233. Thirteen persons were killed and approximately 45 injured. Only half a dozen buildings in the town were left standing.

At least seven persons were killed in Arkansas where vicious winds last night lashed the small community of Bright Water and swept close to Garfield, not far from the Missouri line.

A tornado also struck Clio, a town of about 200 population, in southwestern Iowa, causing extensive property damage. No loss of life was reported, however.

Trees Clipped Off
The tornado that hit Worth swept through the center of the town wiping out the entire business district. Two of the town's three churches and its brick schoolhouse were among the buildings demolished. Practically every tree in town was clipped off.

The community was in darkness until late last night when a mobile generator arrived from a neighboring town. Both the Salvation Army and the Red Cross set up stations and homeless were being cared for in the few remaining residences still standing and in nearby towns.

Aid was rushed to the stricken areas from surrounding towns and the Rogers, Ark., unit of the National Guard was sent to Bright Water to help search the ruins and guard against possible looting. Bright Water has a population of 100.

In Iowa, Pahl Thompson, Northwestern Bell Telephone manager at Corydon, Ia., reported considerable damage at Clio, a town of about 200.

own defense, declared that he was driving toward Hanover, on the right side of the road, but that the jeep driven by Miss Myers was two feet over the center line on his side, when he first saw it, and "then it came directly at me." He said he was driving approximately 30 miles an hour.

During the cross-examination by District Attorney J. Francis Yake, Jr., Ingram denied that his car had been pulled out of a ditch about a mile south of the Mason-Dixon line, that he drove back of the Eagles clubhouse in Littlestown, that he offered a drink to the two men who pulled him out of the ditch, or that one of them told him "you had better stay here awhile and rest up."

He admitted ownership of a bottle of wine found in the glove compartment of his car.

Pulls Car from Ditch

G. Sherman Hildebride, who gave his address as near Littlestown, said Ingram had "flagged" him south of Littlestown and asked him to get his car out of the ditch. He identified the defendant, and said that he and Clarence Warner, Littlestown, had hitched a rope to Ingram's car and pulled it back on the highway. Ingram followed them into Littlestown and at the square turned left and followed them through an alley to the rear of the Eagles home, he said.

Ingram had testified that when he reached Littlestown he turned right and drove toward Hanover.

"Ingram offered me a drink back of the Eagles," Hildebride said. "I saw him have a bottle. I refused the drink."

Other defense witnesses were character witnesses. They included Mrs. Gertrude Parker, Mrs. Martha Lerew and Mrs. Ruth Bennett, all of Catonsville. They testified that Ingram had been known as a "careful driver and law-abiding citizen."

The summations and charging of the jury were postponed Tuesday afternoon until this morning, and the case then given to the jury.

Attorney Richard A. Brown and Donald M. Swope appeared for Ingram while District Attorney Yake was assisted by Attorney Daniel Teeter.

Chapter 15

Graddy cried, "Tiny, darling!" He held out both hands to her and looked like a light had suddenly been turned on deep inside him. She put her hands in his for a moment then withdrew them at once and sat uneasily on a much too fragile love-seat.

He thought, "The darling! I said the end of the month, and she has taken me quite literally! She didn't know I'd wait forever!"

Martina indicated the tea tray on the table. "I asked Johnstone for a cup of tea because I felt a little shaky, then I thought perhaps I'd better wait for you. May I pour it now?"

"Please do." The cold fingers of apprehension tightened around his heart.

She handed him a cup and poured her own, took great care about the sugar and lemon, and then stirred it for a long time.

Graddy, struggling with his rising sense of uneasiness, watched her until he could wait no longer. Then he said, "Tina, my dear, have you come to answer the question I asked you at your house that evening? Because if you have..."

He almost said, "If you have I'd rather you didn't..." I'd rather you wait a while longer — please, don't speak..."

But she set down her tea without even tasting it and came to stand before him, exactly like a small girl brought up on the carpet. He rose and put his arm about her, and at the touch she began to cry. It had been a day when emotions had swung from high to low and back again with startling frequency, and it suddenly became too much for her. She cried until he began to grow alarmed.

"Martina, for heaven's sake! What are you crying about? Stop it at once!"

She raised stricken eyes. "I'm crying because I've — I've got to say 'No,' Graddy, and I don't want to hurt you."

He took his arm away and walked to the window. It came to him now that he had been more than half expecting this. To have had her say "Yes" joyfully, unequivocally, was just too much to expect. But there had been a small shred of hope — the hope that she had depended on him for so long that she might not want to break their association — the hope that because Martina Wayland had never been much of a father to her, she might come to think of him, Graddy, not only as protector and guide, but as lover as well. It had been foolish even to harbor this small hope... but this knowledge did not lessen in the slightest degree the suffering he felt now. It made his face look old and drawn.

"Is it this Dan Holloway, Martina?"

"Yes, of course. Who else could it be? The ecstasy of it trembled in her voice, submerging the pity she felt for him."

"You realize, of course, that you know absolutely nothing about him. In the absence of your parents, I feel a responsibility..."

"I know I love him better than anybody in the whole world! Isn't that enough?"

He winced perceptibly. "Have you ever found out anything about his family, his business?"

"I've met his family. I told you before he has a wonderful mother. The whole family is wonderful. They have so much fun together!"

She told him then about Dan's business and Graddy said grudgingly, "I've been up there. Everybody gets up there sooner or later. They've got a gold mine. John Moffat is a fine man, but I didn't connect this Holloway —"

Martina began to giggle hysterically. "If you think I won't starve with Dan, Graddy, it's a great relief!"

"Don't be flippant!"

YORKER DRIVES 1902 CAR HERE

Despite the fact that "old motor cars" have been in the majority around the borough for the past few years, an old car Tuesday afternoon drew hundreds of curious when it parked near the court house.

The "go-mobile" was a 1902 Sears-Roebuck motor buggy, and the name described the looks of the car. It is a buggy with a motor attached to drive it, by chains.

The machine arrived in town shortly after 1 o'clock with its owner, J. J. Ruth who said he drove here from York in about one hour elapsed time, to transact some business at the court house.

The motor has been reconditioned once, Ruth said. He is using the seventh set of tires and estimates that the car has been driven about 100,000 miles.

Plans Long Trip

He plans to add a little more mileage this summer by driving it from coast-to-coast.

The motor, located under the floor boards, has 2 cylinders and the gasoline in the cylinders is fired by two high tension coils run by six dry cells. Two chain drives from the motor extend to the two 36 inch solid rubber tire rear wheels.

The upright steering post is on the left side. Ruth says the car can travel 30 miles an hour and 15 miles to the gallon. The gas tank holds five gallons.

Miss Josephine Klinedinst, York, who drove part of the way to Gettysburg confessed the vehicle frightened her. "Its 30 miles an hour seems six times as fast in an ordinary car," she says. Built like a buggy, the vehicle is open in front and on all sides.

Building Ideas For Home Owners Of This Community

SIMPLICITY CAN PAY DIVIDENDS IN HOME DESIGN

Definite good taste is difficult. People's tastes vary in food, clothing, houses, and innumerable items in everyday life.

What is good taste in house design is just as hard to define, builders believe. One general rule is that a union between simplicity and functionalism will bring the best results.

In planning a house it is usually thought best to have the arrangement between taste and functionalism properly related.

Roof Defined
Webster defines a roof as simply "the cover to a building." The definition in house designing embraces much more. For example, the longer the roof line the more restful and pleasing the effect. Badly proportioned attic and corner windows, irregularities, sharp angles, and a variety of roof color are factors which tend to injure the appearance of roofs.

The primary function of the wall is to keep out the weather, but most builders believe that the simpler the design of the wall the better it looks. Walls should not be extreme in their simplicity, but, on the other hand, should not be ornate.

Windows and doors are purely functional, but they should fit the general design of the house and at the same time be in proportion to each other.

Chimneys Need Symmetry
Frequently oversized or undersized, conspicuous chimneys ruin an otherwise good architectural appearance. Chimneys should be grouped together as far as possible for economy and efficiency as well as appearance.

The use of color often reflects good or bad taste. Factors influencing color selection include the immediate surroundings, the landscape and neighboring houses.

The design of the garage to be in good taste should be purely functional in nature without "false-front decorations" but in character with the house.

PANELLED DOOR BEST FOR HOME

Panelled interior doors—with their delicate shadow lines and light-reflecting surfaces—are preferred in many American homes because of their ability to harmonize with room furnishings.

This fact is revealed by a recent Nation-wide survey which shows that of those who preferred the parallel type of interior door, more than 68 per cent based their preference on decorative harmony and architectural design.

According to the survey, the popularity of panelled doors is especially strong in the South and East, where the charm of traditional architecture is preserved in many of the finest and most modern homes. However, more than 84 per cent of respondents from all over the country now have panelled doors.

Modern developments in panelled door manufacture make it possible to obtain a fine variety of styles at moderate cost. One such style—a six-panel door—is based on famous Jeffersonian architecture and is designed to add a "grace note" to homes in which it is used. Other panel designs include the classic eight-panel door, four-panel, two-panel and single panel styles. Single panel doors fit well into any setting, especially modern and contemporary decorative schemes.
